New Spanish President Protests Against Anti-Catholic Attitude Of Cortes

STORMY SESSION HELD ALL NIGHT

Zamora Resigned Last Week But Reconsidered On Advice Of His Friends

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Oct. 14.—In protest against the anti-Catholic attitude of the constituent Cortes, President Nicete Alcala Zamora has resinged as chief executive of the Spanish republic, it was learned today.

Zamora's resignation followed a stormy all-night session of the Cortes, during which an article in the proposed federal constitution separating church and state was passed, as well as several other articles including one providing for the expulsion of the Jesuits.

Because of the strong anti-Catholic attitude of the Socialists, Zamora submitted his resignation last week, and for one hour the country was without a president. He reconsidered, however, and withdrew his resignation at that time, but warned that continuance of the anti-religious activity in the Cortes would result in his complete withdrawal from office.

Plea Ignored.

Zamora's resignation was handed to the Cortes after he had delivered a lengthy exhortation urging the deputies to refrain from too drastic anti-religious measures. The Cortes

PA NEWC OBSERVES

One New Castle man, thoroughly disgusted yesterday for a reason was feeling better today. He had driven downtown in his car the other night, parked it and had turned the door's safety lock just to play safe. Returning, the locked door was found open, the polished handle nicked from pounding, and inside a pair of dress gloves were missing. He said it was the damage caused that made his wrath boil—not the gloves.

A street army of young collegians was heard commenting last night on the plan of the University of Arizona co-eds to go 50-50 on "date" expenses. You bet'cha, they O. K'd it.

An automobile carying an Iowa license tag was seen on North Mill street yesterday.

Attention of Pa Newc has been called to the fact that many of the depredations, thefts, stolen automobiles and things of like nature that are occurring at the present time are due to the activities of the younger generation, in fact most of these things are being done by boys under sixteen years of age. It is the opinion of numerous persons that have talked to Pa Newc that it would be a very excellent thing to start the enforcement of the curfew law again in this city, which would require all persons under that age to be at home before nine o'clock in the evening or suffer the consequences, if found on the streets of the city.

EAST WASHINGTON ST. BRIDGE AGAIN OPEN

East Washington street bridge, which has been undergoing extensive repairs and rebuilding, was thrown open for public travel late yesterday. Contract for overhauling bridge was let to Burns and Ferry on July 14, at their bid of $11,031.21, which was the lowest bid offered.

Actual work on repairing the bridge was started about August 1. The first work was done about the pier in the center of the bridge. Excavations were made around the pier and steel piling driven to hold in place tons of concrete which was poured around the base of the pier.

After some further work done on the under part of the bridge, work was started on top. Water had been going through the bridge, and in order to make it water tight, all the bricks were torn up and all the earth and concrete shoveled out.

The upper surface of the concrete work was then covered with roofing felt and over the top of this a liberal coating of tar was applied. The earth was then filled in, following by a coating of concrete and cement and finally the bricks were laid. All crevices between the brick have been carefully filled with tar. It is believed that there will be no more trouble with water soaking through.

New sidewalks have been put down and new railings installed. The new railing is somewhat different from the old being solid. The work has been completed under the direction of Engineer T. A. Gilkey.

During the time the bridge was being rebuilt traffic was detoured over the North street and Mill street bridges.

Cyr Has Self Installed As Governor—Long Claims Right To Office—Troops Called

(International News Service)

BATON ROUGE La., Oct. 14—Amid an atmosphere of extreme tension, armed members of the militia and Highway Police guarded the state capitol and Governor's mansion today as Governor Huey P. Long and Lieutenant Governor Paul Cyr came to grips in their long-standing political feud.

Despite Cyr's action in having himself sworn in as governor of the state, Governor Long today remained in possession of the administration. The state troopers continued under his comand pending the arrival from Atlanta of Adjutant General Fleming.

Administration Firm

Protected by the armed sentinels, Governor Long's administrative appointees remained in occupancy of the offices in the government building. The soldiers and highway police were under orders to resist any possible attempt on the part of Cyr's appointees to assume possession of the office.

Ever since Governor Long's election to the United States senate was certified, Cyr has contended that the governor's seat was vacant and has threatened to take pos-

Plans For Defense Shrouded In Mystery—Prosecution Finishes Case

NO WITNESSES FOR AL MAY BE CALLED

Attorneys Ask For Ten Hours To Argue Case, But Judge Refuses To Grant Request

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Defense plans at the trial of Al Capone, the "big time" racketeer accused by the United States government of fraudulently evading the payment of income tax were shrouded in mystery today. Indeed, it was problematical whether the defense would call a single witness, now that the prosecution has rested its case.

It's Capone's move and his defense is not quite prepared to make it. They made that plain when the government surprised them so suddenly resting. They immediately asked for a three day adjournment of the trial but Judge James H. Wilkerson turned that motion down. He also refused to give a directed verdict of 'not guilty."

Negro Confesses Slaying Of Four; Is Being Guarded

Enraged Maryland Mob Threatens To Lynch Negro Attacker And Slayer

IS SPIRITED TO BALTIMORE JAIL

Quarrel With Farmer Over Dollar Led To Killing Of Man, Wife And Two Girls

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Md., Oct. 14.—Confessing after 15 hours of grilling to murdering a farmer, his wife, and their two young daughters, Orphan Jones, 60-year old negro, was held in a secret cell today to prevent lynching by enraged farmers pending indictment and trial for the crimes.

Jones, his face battered and showing other marks of his zealous questioners, sobbed out his confession late yesterday while an angry mob surrounded the little jail at Snow Hill, county seat of Pocomoke county. He admitted he had shot Green Davis, 55, his wife, Eva, 48, and their daughters, Elizabeth, 15, and Mary Lee, 13, then hacked them with an ax in their lonely home at Taylorsville.

Is Taken Away

After his confession he was spirited away to a secret hiding place as threats of lynching were heard on all sides. It is believed he may have been taken to the Baltimore jail.

A quarrel with the farmer over $1 led to the slayings, Jones admitted.

"I worked for Mr. Davis three weeks," he said. "I got a dollar a day—seven dollars a week and my room and board. It rained last Thursday and I couldn't work, but I asked for my dollar and he wouldn't give it to me.

"I asked him on Saturday for my dollar and he wouldn't give it to me," Jones explained. "Then the devil got in me. I got up early Sunday and walked from Ocean City where my home is to the farm. I sneaked in the back door while everybody was asleep and got the double-barreled shotgun out of a closet and loaded it."

Tells of Killings.

"Then I went to the front bedroom where Davis and Mrs. Davis lay asleep and fired at them. They never moved. Then I went to the girls' bedroom in the back of the house. I was crazy then. I pointed the gun at them. I don't know if it went off or not. But they were still moving and I took my Colt and fired at Miss Elizabeth's head. I fired too at Miss Mary Lee through the sheet. They were still moving so I hit them.

"I wanted my dollar. I started out to get it," Jones continued. "I found Mr. Davis' pocketbook and some other money and put them in MUKDEN, Oct. 14.—Heavy Japanese troop movements, in which airplanes took an active part, began today south of Mukden.

The Japanese military headquarters here declared the troops were dispatched to "exterminate bandits," but clashes were feared with a Chinese brigade reported to be moving northward under command of General Wang Yi-Chi.

The first contingent of the Japanese expedition boarded trains on the Peiping-Mukden railway near Liuo, thirty miles outside of Mukden, at dawn under orders to "clear up" the district between Hsinmen and Mukden and to cross the Liao river.

Pa Newc believes in the young folks having a good time, but when it comes to damaging property, it is time to draw the line. So it was when a group of boys of the east side took upon themselves to break a window of the Zion Lutheran church on North Crawford avenue and entered. From the report given, things were disturbed inside but nothing was taken.

Perhaps no person in New Castle enjoys seeing it rain more than the chemist at the water works. Keeping New Castle's drinking water supply pure and wholesome is a difficult task, but it is doubly hard when the river stage is low. When the river starts rising, he is kept busier than usual for a time because of the change in the condition of the water, but he knows that the raw water is going to be better afterwards.

Remodeling work is being done on the Pennsylvania Power company building, on Washington street. A large scaffold has been erected at the rear of the building, in Cochran Way.

Pa Newc was reminded in a firm way yesterday that winter weather is just around the corner when he saw a huge Illinois truck going through the city, carrying scores of rolls of new highway storm fences. The dull red fences will be deposited in convenient places ready to be erected when the snow flakes start flying.

It is a matter of just a little over two weeks until the candles in the pumpkin faces will be lighted. Hallowe'en is coming along on the 31st as usual and that Saturday night promises to be a noisy one. The regular deluge of Hallowe'en parties has been started and last night Pa. Newc saw a black and white clown walking down the street.

DEFENSE PLANS FOR CAPONE ARE BEING PREPARED

nesses on the stand to combat the evidence the Government has placed before the jury during seven days of court sessions, it is regarded as a certainty that Capone himself will not be one of those witnesses.

Capone, of course, is vitally interested in the outcome of the case but apparently not to the extent of wanting to take the stand himself. He has shown his interest, too, not only when he advised his attorneys of the selection of the jury but throughout the trial when he repeatedly whispered advice into the ears of his lawyers.

When Judge Wilkerson informed the defense lawyers that the case would proceed today, Fink gave an inkling of what Capone's side will do when the trial is resumed.

Want Ten Hours

"If we decide to present no evidence must we be prepared to argue?" Fink asked the court.

The judge indicated that such would be the proceedure.

"Well then, I'd like ten hours to argue," said Fink.

Assistant United States Attorney Dwight Green suggested two hours for each side would be sufficient. This did not suit the defense at all.

Judge Wilkerson finally ruled tentatively that he would give each side four hours for arguments to the jury.

The numerous defense objections and motions were taken by some observers as an indication that Capone's counsel were laying a basis of appeal from an unfavorable verdict of the jury to the United States supreme court.

It was expected the Japanese movement would continue into the Koupangtze area and to Chinchow, where disturbances already have occurred between Chinese and Japanese troops.

The clash on the banks of the Liao river was the first encounter reported since the Japanese launched their extensive drive to wipe out what Japanese authorities termed "marauding bands of brigands."

According to available reports here, the Japanese forces numbered 150. They met the Chinese band, numbering about 200, several hours after leaving Mukden on the first of a number of troop trains despatched to the disordered area.

The meting was followed by a sharp exchange of shots in which seven Chinese were killed before the "bandit" force was put to rout. No casualties were reported among the Japanese.

Details Received.

Additional details were received today of the clash yesterday between Japanese airplanes and Chinese soldiers aboard a troop train for Tahushan. According to reports received by Japanese authorities, three Japanese planes were fired upon, the Chinese scoring twenty hits with rifle and machine-gun fire. A Japanese aviator lieutenant was slightly wounded, but the other airmen escaped, although the uniforms of some of them were pierced by Chinese bullets.

In retaliation for the firing, the Japanese statement said, four bombs were dropped.

Members of his cabinet implored Zamora to remain in office, attempting to convince him that his resignation was impossible in view of the agreement to remain in the post of provisional president until the entire new constitution has been approved by the Cortes and a new chief executive elected by popular vote.

LEAGUE SEEKING TO DRAW U. S. INTO PARLEY ON CHINA

the league's efforts to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute in order to escape at least part of the responsibility should peace overtures fail and war break out in the Far East.

Under the leadership of Aristid Briand, foreign minister of France, members of the council, excluding the delegates of China and Japan, discussed the question of American participation for more than an hour.

Invite U. S. to Take Part

They reached a unanimous decision that the United States should be invited to have a representative at the council table, and left it to Briand to override the reported objections of the Japanese delegate, Kenkichi Yoshisawa.

After the meeting of the council members broke up, Briand conferred privately with Ambassador Yoshisawa, Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, and Printiss Gilbert, American consul in Geneva, who has been delegated by Secretary of State Stimson to take part in the Sino-Japanese discussions as the representative of the United States.

Neither Briand or Gilbert would discuss their conversation, but it was understood that Gilbert had made a report to Washington by cable to advise Secretary Stimson of the latest developments and to request the attitude of the Washington government.

Japan Informed

It was reported that in informing Ambassador Yoshisawa of the attitude of the other council members, Briand did not formally ask Japan to consent to American participation, but merely informed the Japanese delegate that the United States had been invited.

A formal meeting of the council was expected to be held late this afternoon, when Briand hoped to have a reply to Gilbert's message to Washington, enabling him to announce that the United States would be represented.

All members of the council recognize the situation with respect to American participation requires most delicate handling to avoid wounding Japanese feelings. There is no precedent for inviting a power not a member of the league to participate even informally in council deliberations of such an important character.

It is understood the council first suggested through roundabout channels that the United States ask permission to be represented so the league could then inform the Japanese government which in the circumstances would not desire to deliver a rebuff to the United States. Washington is said to have cold-shouldered this proposal.

Yoshisawa has asked his government for instructions. Since council decisions are by unanimous vote Japan can, if she desires, veto the participation of the United States in the peace negotiations.

Break Off Negotiations

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14.—China and Japan have completely broken off direct negotiations for a settlement of the Manchurian dispute, according to reliable information received here today.

Responsibility for the break is attributed to the Chinese government in messages from Tokio which assert the Chinese minister was directed to put an end to the conversations there, fearing China's chances of obtaining league intervention would be prejudiced.

Tree Condition Factor In Case

Conflicting Testimony Is Given As To State Of Decay In Clark Case

The case of Samuel Clark by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Clark against Magdalene Babiarz, which was taken up before Judge James A. Chambers Tuesday morning is still on trial. Plaintiffs are seeking to recover $25,000 damages as a result of injuries sustained by Samuel Clark, aged 6, when a dead tree on the Babiarz property fell upon him as he was going home from school.

Considerable testimony is being introduced as to the condition of the dzad tree. Some of the witnesses maintain that it was rotten and others that it was comparatively solid. The condition of the tree at the time that it was blown over by a high wind, is considered a vital factor in the case.

LUNCHEON GIVEN FOR MISS ANDERSON

The dining room of the First Methodist church presented a beautiful sight Tuesday as the women of the church and friends gathered to honor Miss Mary Anderson of Algiers, Africa.

The long tables were decorated in green and yellow and bowls of autumn flowers were used down the centers and the several hundred women seated themselves and Miss Anderson invoked the Divine blessing.

After the women of the Stephenson Circle had served a delicious menu, Miss Anderson thanked the women for the delightful thought of honoring her thus and then the group adjourned to the assembly room of the Sunday school, which was beautifully decorated with baskets of beautiful dahlias and zinnias. As the women entered the room soft strains of music greeted their ears, as Mrs. J. C. Miner played the piano.

With Mrs. Howard S. Hammond then at the piano and Mrs. Miner leading, the group sang a number of Miss Anderson's favorite missionary hymns and Mrs. W. A. Stritmater made the prayer.

Mrs. W. P. Felch sang, Leaves in the Wind" and "Bird Songs at Eventide" after which Mrs. D. C. Keast turned the meeting over to Mrs. E. N. Baer, who introduced the speaker and honored guest, Miss Mary Anderson, who has been a worker in Algiers, Africa for the past twenty two years and supported by the First Methodist church for the past ten.

Miss Anderson then greeted the women and said in the future it would mean so much more to think of her "mother church" here and to the women of the church she would not now be only "a name at the end of a letter."

Miss Anderson gave a most graphic picture of the location of Algiers, telling the nearness of the country to France and also to the United States and she went into the history of the development of Christianity there, taking the time of two thousand years ago, then one hundred, then fifty, then twenty two years ago when she began work there and brought the work up to the present time, telling the women the difficulties they work under, but stressing the wonderful opportunities there are for the spread of the Gospel.

At the close of the afternoon session the women became better acquainted with Miss Anderson, who is making her first visit to the supporting congregation.

As the guests arrived they were greeted at the door by Mrs. W. H. Wood and Mrs. Roy Miller and then passed on to the receiving line, where Miss Anderson was introduced by Mrs. H. C. Weaver, Mrs. Carl Paisley, Mrs. E. N. Baer, and Miss Beulah Magruder, deaconess of the church.

An informal program featured the hours, with Dr. W. A. Womer and Mrs. B. K. Thacker singing delightful numbers, after which Miss Anderson gave a delightful talk of her experiences as a missionary. Mrs. W. P. Felch closed the program with a delightful vocal number.

Mrs. E. B. Hawkins and her committee, Mrs. J. H. Carpenter, Mrs. J. W. Anderson, Mrs. Bessie Pitzer and a number of members of the class, then took charge of the program and served light refreshments.

Miss Anderson's visit in the city has been concluded as she left this morning for Sharon, where she will address the convention of the W. G. M. S. She will return to her duties in Africa about the first of the new year.

HALT THE GLORIFICATION OF COWARDLY GUNMEN

PRESIDENT HOOVER, in his radio greeting to the International Association of Chiefs of Police now in session, delivered himself of a sentiment which will have the unanimous approval of good citizens in every section of the United States.

After calling attention to the tendency to criticism of the police, he declared that for the most part the officers of the law are brave men who deserve applause instead of condemnation. Then he added these words: "The sentimentalism which makes popular heroes out of criminals needs replacement by a sentimentalism that makes a popular hero of the policeman for the courage and devotion he shows in protection of our citizens. Instead of the glorification of cowardly gangsters we need the glorification of policemen who do their duty and give their lives in public protection."

These words are words of truth and wisdom. Coming from such a high source, they should make a deep impression upon the people. The fact that a comparatively small number of policemen have been weak and dishonest should not be a reason for thoughtlessly condemning the entire force. These men take their lives in their hands every time they go on duty, and they deserve and should have the support of all good citizens.

On the other hand, the crooks and the gunmen, who are cowards at heart, deserve only contempt and the full punishment of the law. Unthinking denunciation of the police encourages criminals because they feel that it helps them to defeat the law. Every time a popular hero is made out of thief or a murderer it increases the disadvantage under which the police constantly labor. Motion pictures have much to account for in this respect.

President Hoover has done well to call this fact to the attention of the American people. It is to be hoped that his clear-cut words will play a part in wiping out the disrepute which unpunished crime has brought about in many of our large cities.

DAUNTLESS DIVERS

Eleven of the crew of the submarine Nautilus, which Sir Hubert Wilkins took to within 350 miles of the North Pole, have landed at New York no worse for their harrowing experience and willing to make the voyage again if a better craft can be had. They bore cold, sickness, mechanical breakdowns of the vessel and constant danger of death, not without "some grumbling," to be sure, but with notable good temper, nonetheless.

It was somewhat surprising that men could be induced to undertake the hazardous venture at all, which certain authorities condemned as foolhardy before the start, suggests the Dayton News. Chief Engineer Ralph D. Shaw, who has worked with submersibles over 20 years, describes the eastward voyage across the Atlantic as the most trying ordeal in his experience. The air was bad in the reconditioned navy craft, the rolling motion made most of the men ill, and to cap the climax the engines collapsed and the batteries refused to function.

If the Nautilus couldn't cross the Atlantic, the chance of its sailing safely and successfully under the ice cap was much less. Apparently the crew didn't bother to make the comparison. Even a damaged diving rudder, discovered after they reached the Arctic ice fields, didn't deter them. They wen under several times, with the ice cakes crashing deafeningly against the sides of the submarine. Their log for the two months cruise was a succession of unnerving episodes.

This same human hardihood accounts for most of the pioneering in history. The sailors who worked for Columbus did some grumbling, but under his leadership they drove on to discover a continent. There has never been a dearth of daredevils willing to fly the oceans. However awesome the task, there are men willing to tackle it.

A POOR WAGER ON WINTER OUTLOOK

Old Man Winter is a secretive and contrary cuss! No one knows what is on his mind until he has carried out his intentions, which are sometimes wicked as the nation knows from recent experience.

The federal government maintains an elaborate weatherreading system which has the whole library of meteorological science at its command, every community has its complacent goose-bone prophets, most households have up-to-date editions of the almanacs and there is a multiplicity of signs and portents handed down from times immemorial, but, having all these to work with, man has found no infallible means of reading the mind of the father of snow, blizzards and zero temperatures.

This year's long and balmy period of mild autumn weather encouraged the thought that a mild and open winter would follow. Instead a large part of the country may experience unusually early snows and record-breaking cold snaps.

People place too great significance in weather conditions. No two winters are exactly alike, but the extremes don't differ from the mean as much as many suppose. Seasons are not bound by the manner in which they make their debut.

ONLY BOOBS TAKE SHAW SERIOUSLY

George Bernard Shaw is a good entertainer who has made a success by denouncing everybody and everything. His radio address in which he twitted the "dear old boobs" in the United States is calculated to arouse the ire of those who take him seriously. He was true to form when he gloated over "the present plight of capitalistic nations" and compared them unfavorably with Soviet Russia. If he believed half of what he says he would be living in Russia today. But he thinks too much of his own comfort to do anything like that. He will continue to reside in England, which he is constantly deriding, because he knows that his life and property are safer there.

George Bernard might be called the perfect humbug were it not for the fact that so few humbugs are perfect, concludes the Inquirer of Philadelphia. It was the late P. T. Barnum who said that the people loved to be fooled; but there was less ill nature in his irony than in that of the noted dramatist.

Don't Want My "I. Q." Taken? I'm Afraid It Would Hurt Go Pick on Little Children

By MARSHALL MASLIN

No, thank you; no, thank you; no, thank you! If it's just the same to you I'd rather not have my I. Q. taken. . . . Yes, I know it couldn't possibly hurt me, but nevertheless, I'd rather not. . . . I'm shy, I'm self-conscious, I'm superstitious about that; I prefer to keep my I. Q. a secret, even from myself.

Certainly, I know what an I. Q. is. . . . . You'll sit me down in front of you and ask me a lot of questions. You'll give me problems to work out. You'll ask me, "Suppose some one threw a golf ball into a circular field of alfalfa—what would be the quickest way of finding it?"

You'll ask me questions about ethics, questions about arithmetic, questions about everything. . . . You'll spy on me. You'll hold a stop watch on me. . . . And after you're finished you'll take the examination papers away and go over them carefully with a slide rule and a chart—and after a few days you'll come back and tell me what my I. Q. is.

It's my Intelligence Quotient. That means my physical age divided into my mental age, does't it? For instance, if I were 8 years old and my mental age was 12 years I'd have an I. Q. of something like 150—and that's a lot. I'd be a "genius"—and if you told my mother and my mother told me I'd be spoiled for life. And if I was 12 and had a mental age of 8—that would be terrible, too.

So, no matter what you discovered about me, I would be uncomfortable. I'd be vain or I'd be humiliated.

Here I am, fumbling and doing the best I can between streaks of laziness and activity, not knowing very much but hoping a great deal—and you take my I. Q. and tell me I should be pitching hay instead of punching a typewriter. It would be very upsetting. I couldn't stand it.

You could be a doctor and punch my chest and listen to my heart and take my blood pressure and tell me that what I need is a long, long rest and a trip to Honolulu, and I could bear up under that.

Or you could be a frank friend and tell me I ought to get to work—and that would be all right. . . . But you can't have my I. Q. to add to your grisly collection.

Go pick on little children who can't defend themselves. You can't have MY I. Q. . . . All I have to say is, "No, thann-n-nn-Q!"

HIGH HAT SOMETIMES SHIELDS INFERIORITY COMPLEX

Don't be severe in pronouncing judgment on the person whom you consider "high hat" or snobby.

Often this attitude is assumed to cover up embarrassment.

When a person acts superior and "snooty" as some call it, very often it indicates really a feeling of inferiority in a certain direction and a desire to deceive the public in this particular, whatever it is.

It is often difficult to break through an exterior, cold or crusty.

The person so enclosed thinks it a protection measure although it may be only a subconscious gesture.

To throw out such chilly suggestions to stop people from coming too near is a sort of stiffening process and is more likely to paralyze the forces of the one who employs it rather than the one who receives the dose of cold water intended.

Deep in the hearts of every one is a longing to be natural.

But a realized deficiency, and inability to cope with circumstances or a lack of confidence calls pride to the rescue—and the snob appears.

Life is unreal at such times, so pity the one who acts "high hat" but do not censure a fellow being for this tendency.

Sir Thomas Lipton Acclaimed As Model Of Sportsmanship

Ever Hopeful Challenger For America's Cup Declared To Have Won World's Affection By Spirit He Put Into Racing

American admiration for the sportsmanship of Sir Thomas Lipton is voiced as death ends his career at the age of 80. He is ranked among the great because of the gallant fights made by his challenging "Shamrocks" and the cheerful optimism which characterized his career.

"Sir Thomas probably closed his eyes after a wink of satisfaction. Why should a great loser impair his reputation with a victory?" says the ASBURY PARK PRESS, with the tribute that "he lost with more grace than most men demonstrate in victory." The TOLEDO BLADE thinks "it is conceivabe that he held to his dreams to the day of his going away, for it was not within him to surrender." The SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS remarks: "Who remembers the American winners of the trophy or who particularly cares? But everybody remembers Sir Thomas Lipton, the cheerful loser." Quoting the words, "Hopes springs eternal," the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN comments: "He symbolized that glorious frailty to millions of people all over the world. Warm, genial, gallant sportsman! Americans feel a personal loss in his death."

A distinguished New York yachtsman is quoted by the ATLANTA JOURNAL as having said, upon the occasion of the last race, that "the Americans would lose regardless of how the competition went, since the regret we would feel over defeating Sir Thomas again would nullify the glow of triumph." The Journal also declares: "America may be proud of writing for Sir Thomas the perfect epitaph, 'The world's best loser.' No memorial could characterize him more fittingly, and none could say more. Certainly so gallant a sportsman would not have wished for more than that the unfeigned, admiring tribute of a nation, offered upon the cup presented to him in New York."

"To many it will seem as if Sir Thomas has sailed away in the Shamrock; steered to the West with a smile on his face and a hand raised in cheerful salute," suggests the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, while the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL states: "He has set his sails and swung his helm for a jurney into the vast unknown. There let it be hoped, he will meet with those gallant salts who, for almost eighty years, were identified with the holding or the attempt to take the America's Cup."

"He was Britain's greatest unofficial ambassador," says the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, while the DANBURY EVENING NEWS feels that "it is something to be so gallant a contender that the 'enemy' is as fond of you as your own people," and the SCRANTON TIMES holds that "in the United States he was beloved more than any other Britisher." The ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC pays the tribute: "He had the qualities that win and hold friends, from King Edward VII to the humblest clerk, and the world has lost a gallant gentleman."

"The most beloved international sportsman," is the estimate of the MANCHESTER UNION. The MINNEAPOLIS STAR remarks: "A poet has said that the Great Scorer does not ask whether we won but how we played the game. If that be true, certainly opposite the name of Sir Thomas Lipton is written today, 'a hundred per cent.'" The Star also comments: "The world of sport has developed many champions whose names have been etched deeply upon the tablets of history. But never in our memory has it produced a sportsman so much entitled to immortality as Sir Thomas." The BALTIMORE SUN declares that he "lived a life which was certainly one of the most successful of the last hundred years," while the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER pays the tribute "He was the jolliest and the finest type of sportsman the world ever produced, and yacht races of the future will not be what they were when Lipton's participation aroused international interest." The HAMILTON (ONT.) SPECTATOR avers: "The world is the poorer for his passing from the scene. There was never a sportsman quite like that witty Irishman."

Describing the yachtsman as "a good fellow" who "pursued a worthy quest and played fairly," the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST says of his career: "He failed in the chief ambition of his life, but he made a great score in sportsmanship and he won the admiration and affection of the American people, and, at the last, the recognition of the premier yachting authority of his own country in his election a few months ago to membership in the Royal Yacht Squadron, which had for so long held its door closed to him."

"He leaves a shining memory of good sportsmanship that will long be an example to the world," observes the DULUTH HERALD, and the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS, recognizing the same fact, offers the comment: "The race is not always to the swift; time and chance bear their part. The sportsman recognizes that truth, and goes out not so much to win as to play the game. If he has done his best, while scrupulously keeping the rules, he is content, whatever the issue. Sport, any sport, which inculcates such qualities is worth preserving and cultivating. The genuine sportsman is also a philosopher, for life itself is a game."

"As a player of the game for the fun of it, he might well stand as a model for athletes and sportsmen everywhere," in the opinion of the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, and the DES MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITAL offers the judgment: "International sport loses one of its most admirable figures. The record of his life-long and indefatigable pursuit of the America's yachting cup is unique in sports annals. Some admirers of the admiral will be inclined to express regret that victory, through all the years of competition, did not even once rest upon his shoulders. Others, however, will feel that his real joy, after all, was in the quest and not in the achievement, and that he gained, by the unfailing good spirit with which he met defeat after defeat, more of the essentials of victory than he ever could have realized from the mere winning of a cup. The world of sport will feel keenly the loss of this gallant exemplar of the spirit of true sportsmanship."

ACHIEVEMENT

Let him who will go running for the lights that gleam afar,
Where the music's tuned to dancing
and the crowds of people are.
Give me the restful evenings with the family gathered round
And the few friends, tried and faithful, and that little patch of ground,
With its lawn and beds of posies,
which reflect the care I give,
And I'll build a thousand memories
to cherish while I live.

When I long for entertainment just to pass the time away,
I've no lack of mirth and frolic—
with the children I can play.
Or in need of some diversion, as a happy group we'll go Hand in hand to sit together at a neighboring picture show.
But we'll keep our wants in reason and we'll keep our pleasures
sweet
And try to find the gladness that adorns our little street.

Oh, the book of life is written not in scarlet inks or gold
Or in deeds of dash and color. As a simple tale it's told.
When you reach the final chapter and you glimpse the pages
through
All that memory has recorded as the worth while side of you
Are the joys and passing sorrows which the family has shared,
With the failures and achievements and the few good friends who cared.

'Tis the little house and garden
where the life-time labors
count,
Not in dollars but in friendships will our satisfactions mount.
Has the home-place been a haven
where the children joyed to be?
Do they turn and look upon it with a happy memory?
If, in spite of hurt and sorrow, the old walls have known content,
You have filled your life with glory
and your days have been well-spent.

Training School Will Start Soon At Local Church

Leadership Training Schools In New Castle And New Wilmington

Considerable interest is being manifested in the leadership training schools that are to be held in Lawrence county under the instruction of Dr. George W. Wellburn, Christian education superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association.

The New Castle school, which is to be held at the First Baptist church, New Castle, will start with a 7:30 session Tuesday evening, Oct. 20. There will be five class periods alternating every other night between New Castle and New Wilmington. This will all be explained to those attending the first class and regular standard credit will be given. The New Castle course is especially beneficial to teachers and prospective teachers, although all Sabbath school executives will benefit by taking the course. The dean of the New Castle school is Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church of this city.

The New Wilmington school opens Monday evening, Oct. 19 at the New Wilmington United Presbyterian church and the pastor, Rev. J. Ralph Neale, is dean of this school. The course given here will be especially appropriate for Sabbath school superintendents and other executive officers, although Sabbath school teachers will obtain much of profit from this course.

Those wishing to take both courses and receive double credit may attend the New Castle school one night and the New Wilmington school the next night, and so on until completion of both courses.

The advance enrollment for both the New Castle and New Wilmington schools is very encouraging, although at the present time the names of those enrolling in the New Wilmington school have not been listed.

Those who have already enrolled in the New Castle school are: Mrs. S. J. Callahan, Margaret St. Clair, Margaret Koch, Edith Cleaveland, Mrs. Leota Filban, Mrs. L. D. Garrett, C. L. Martin, D. S. COLCHESTER, Conn., Oct. 14.—Fire started by lightning recently leveled the farmhouse of Michael Zagary and the family set up housekeeping in the barn. Today the makeshift domicile was in ruins after three-year-old Michael had started a fire to warm his pet kitten.

Zagary was in Norwich and Mrs. Zagary and four older children were in the potato fields when Michael ran screaming into the potato patch. The nearest telephone was more than a mile away so the mother was unable to summon assistance. Neighbors sheltered the family.

CARSON CITY BULLION DEPOSITS INCREASE

CARSON CITY, Nev., Oct. 14.—More deposits of bullion have been made here during recent months than during any similar period in the past 15 years, according to E. T. Clyde, superintendent of the local mint.

This increase in deposits is attributed by Clyde to a change made June 1 to this year in a former ruling of the federal bureau of mines so that the mints may now accept deposits to be purchased if they contain two ounces of gold, valued in the neighborhood of $41, instead of requiring that the deposits be valued at not less than $100.

Scouts Help With Pre-Chest Details

Troops Give Loyal Service To Drive This Week; Circulate Posters

Loyally responding to the service ideals of their movement, local Boy Scout troops are busy this week in giving out the 1932 Community Chest campaign posters, the design of which has attracted much favorable comment. The poster carries the slogan "This Year as Never Before," with a color drawing of a little child holding a home-made doll. Eugene Avery is the artist, and the picture has a strong appeal. It is for such children that the Associated Charities, Margaret Henry Home and other local organizations are doing their work. The Boy Scouts are not forgetting her, either, and toys collected and repaired by them will do their part in giving her joy at Christmas.

There is a limited number of these posters available, and chest leaders earnestly request merchants to give them a prominent space in their displays.

Town Split Over Change In Name

(International News Service)

WATSONVILLE, Cal., Oct. 14—What's in a name?

Plenty, says residents of Watsonville, split into two battling and vociferous factions upon a proposal to change the name of this Pajaro Valley city for the sake of euphony. Pajaro by the way, is pronounced Pa-ha-ro.

Newcomers favor a new name. They claim the name "Watsonville" carries an implication of their fair city being just a hick town, and want something done about it.

Older residents are strong in opposition.

Antoinette Deaton, whose grandfather was one of the city's founders, is leader of the opposition while Mayor C. H. Baker is head of the name-changers.

Mrs. Deaton said: "Plough up the grass on the town plaza, close up the bootleggers, even—but change the name of Watsonville? Never!"

CHICKENS START RUSH FOR GOLD

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 14.—A sudden advance in the price of poultry at Sopris may not be due so much to the fact that poultry is generally in demand, but that one man's chance is as good as another's to find gold in the chicken's gizzard!

Recently E. H. Grant, who owns the Frying Pan Inn, at Basalt, purchased a number of chickens for his restaurant. When he cleaned the gizzards of the fowls, he noticed hard bits, which upon examining, were discovered to be tiny gold nuggets. A few flakes of gold were imbedded in the fowls' gizzards.

Joe Dosigney, owner of the poultry ranch on Sopris Creek, forthwith uncovered several gold pans, which had been stored away for many years, and got busy in the region where the chickens had been eating their meals.

Publication of the finding of gold nuggets in the chickens' craws may lead to a mild gold rush in the Sopris district, Joe declares.

Local Clergyman Speaks To Lions

Clubmen Hear Rev. Crooks' Survey Of Farming Conditions In West

Unsettled farming conditions throughout the expansive agricultural areas of the middle west were described Tuesday by Rev. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church here, in a noon-hour message before the Lions club. The luncheon-meeting took place in the Elks club.

Dr. Crooks, born in Missouri, has been unusually interested in agricultural developments of the past few months. He studied conditions at first hand on a vacation visit in that region this summer.

"It is almost a matter of speculation," Dr. Crooks said, "as to what will be the ultimate outcome of it all." He was referring to the 47 per cent of former land owners who today are leasing the ground they once possessed. Foreclosures forced them to yield control of the territory, the minister declared.

He pictured the conditions of these renters, the pioneer stock and backbone of America, as equally drab as conditions in industrial centers of the east.

The Lions, together with leaders of the Federation of Women's clubs, will meet in the club on Thursday evening, October 15, to discuss definite measures regarding the opening of a Pennsylvania State Blind association branch here.

Dr. A. G. Reynolds and Dale Mullen, this city, were the club's guests today.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Ganna Walska's only disagreement with her husband, Harold F. McCormick, was the wish that her marriage would not interfere with her career as an opera singer, she told the United Press today.

McCormick, Chicago millionaire, obtained a divorce Saturday.

"I believe a wife should have the same right to pursue a career as a husband," Ganna Walska said. "I hoped his attitude would be the same.

"Despite the parting of our ways, I think him a splendid man and admire him greatly."

UPWARD TREND IN BUSINESS IS SEEN

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 14—Clouds of depression were believed clearing over the upper Monongahela valley today despite prevailing slumps in the steel and coal markets. An upward swing was seen in gains made in bituminous coal shipments, by rail and river, and through plans of two steel companies to begin increased operations with the turn of the season. In statements of prominent leaders in the steel and coal trades of the Monongahela valley, following conferences here the belief was expressed that "rapid advances are not to be expected but an upturn in business generally and a rising production in Charleroi district mills seem certain."

HOOVER HEIGHTS FINAL WEEK OF GOSPEL SERVICES

The final week of the revival meetings at the Hoover Heights tabernacle got off to a good start last evening. It is inspiring to listen to the singing of the congregation, especially as the campaign choruses are sung. They are "Breathe On Me" and "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen In Me". Rev. E. C. Anderson of the Gospel Tabernacle led in prayer last evening.

Peter Slack, the boy musician played a new combination last evening accompanied by his mother. She played the tippo as he played the piano and marimba-xylophone.

Rev. M. J. Scripture brought another thought provoking sermon showing what Christ had done for the soul and appealed to his hearers that they do something to preserve or save their soul, that they come to Christ for cleansing. Some responded to the invitation.

Many Pheasant Eggs Gathered

Over Hundred Thousand Laid On State Game Farms This Year

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Complete reports compiled by the Game Commission show that 111,911 pheasant eggs were produced at the state game farms this year. Of that number 44,184 were shipped to sportsmen, 19,092 to game refuge keepers, and 27,700 were set at the farms. This is the largest egg production since the farms were established in 1928. This year a total of 2350 laying hens produced an average of forty-three eggs to a bird.

Reports from practically all the game refuge keepers indicate that they successfully raised and released approximately 4200 birds. Over 10,000 birds were produced and released from the game farms. These birds, together with 6500 purchased during the spring, or a total of over 20,000, was the largest allotment of pheasants ever released by the commission. Reports from sportsmen will be available later.

OLD PROSPECTOR TELLS OF MIRAGE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 14.—A moving mirage in which he could distinguish the wharves, buildings, lumber piles and several ships tied up at the dock is the boast of Amos Jamison, aged prospector, who came here recently.

Jamison claims that he saw his mirage in El Dorado canyon late one afternoon. The most surprising part of the mirage according to the old prospector who has travelled the northern Arizona and southern Nevada hills for a decade was the fact that he also saw a white ship resembling a liner steaming slowly up the bay.

History shows that the G. O. P. hasn't been defeated in 50 years except by a split in the party or the pay envelope.

Girl Scouts Have Annual Convention

New Castle Troops Not Represented At Buffalo This Week

Although the New Castle Girl Scouts do not have a delegate at the 17th annual Girl Scout convention which commenced today at Buffalo, N. Y., keen interest is being shown by local executives in the convention proceedings. This great interest is partly due to the fact that Mrs. Herbert Hoover, first lady of the land, and honorary president of the Scout organization, is attending the Buffalo gathering. Convention lasts from October 14-17.

Miss Josephine Schain, national director, who was in New Castle early this year for the regional Girl Scout conference, is a prominent figure at the present convention. Mrs. Frederick Brooke, national field committe chairman, another New Castle visitor of early this year, is also taking a prominent part at this week's sessions. Mrs. Frederick Edey, national president and Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, chairman of the board of directors will also officiate at Buffalo.

Damage By Dogs Reaches $40,427

Is Less Than Last Year In Pennsylvania Report Shows

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Damages caused by uncontrolled dogs to Pennsylvania livestock and poultry amounted to $40,427.68 for the nine months ending October 1, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. The amount of damage is $5000 less than last year and $10,000 less than for the corresponding period in 1929, due primarily to the downward trend in prices. The number of damage claims is the same as a year ago and 21 less than two years ago.

The bureau reports increasing trouble this year from disowned dogs. Many owners who are not able to feed and keep a dog properly, are turning the animals loose or dropping them away from home. These hungry dogs, prey upon livestock and poultry.

Former Evanston Girl May Become Empress

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14.—A former Evanston girl, daughter of a laborer in the waterworks here, may some day be Empress of Abyssinia, one of the few remaining absolute monarchies, it became known today when word of her marriage to a prince of the Abyssinian Negro Kingdom reached this city.

The girl was Dorothy Hadley, 25, former Northwestern University student who eloped and married Prince Maluku Bayen, nephew of Haile Selassie I., the Conquering Lion of Judah, Elect of God and Light of the World. Prince Maluku Bayen is heir apparent to the throne whose occupants claim direct descent from King Solomon.

After leaving Northwestern, Miss Hadley became registrar at Howard University, Washington, D. C., when Prince Baluku enrolled there they fell in love and eloped to Fairfax, W. V., where they were married a year ago, although the romance has just been made known.

Last year the Prince's uncle was crowned in a ceremony which cost millions and attracted world attention.

Another Raid Made By City And County

This Time Two Are Arrested, Jailed For Hearing On Snyder Act Violation

Following close on the heels of the Center street liquor raid of last week city and county police last night raided an establishment on Moravia street and arrested two colored men who were placed in county jail to await a hearing before Alderman Green on charges of violating the Snyder act.

The arrested men are Leroy McClenden and J. Van Rhodes, who are being held in jail in default of $1,500 bond each. Both, authorities say, were found at 1101 Moravia street, scene of the raid last night.

County Detective Lee, his assistant B. J. Rocks, City Detective Creight Logan and Officer Tom Lynch entered the place, a two-story frame, and confiscated, they report, 50 gallons of moonshine.

Authorities report the place had been set up with an ingenious plan to fill bottles with liquor from the cellar of the building. The 50-gallon barrels, one of them empty had been buried under the first floor and concealed with a hidden rubber hose to the cellar. With the aid of gravity bottles were filled in the cellar from the barrels, which in turn were filled from the first floor.

The raiding party also found, it is reported, 22 empty tin 5-gallon containers and many empty bottles.

MINING TOWN MODEL VILLAGE

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 14.—Industrial and state health engineers have turned the town of Adrian, a mining village near here, into a model community sanitation.

The Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal & Iron company spent $104,000 in the the sanitary improvements recommended by the Pennsylvania state departmnet of health.

First of the activities in the sanitation campaign was the removal of 546 loads of rubbish.

Proper drainage was provided around each of the house; sides and roofs were renewed for 105 dwellings, 80 sanitary toilets were installed, and every house was provided with covered garbage containers.

Measures were taken to protect the water supply from all possible contamination and other steps taken to complete the sanitation project.

It is asserted that the beauty parlors have not been affected by the business depression. Evidently the ladies want to face the situation in the best trim possible under the circumstances.—The Lowell Evening Leader.

ELK STALKS INTO TOWN.

(International News Service)

DUBOIS, Wyo., Oct. 14.—At the height of the elk season, while daily hunting parties were going out into the nearby hills in search of bull elk, there stalked through the streets of DuBois the other day a magnificent elk. He paid little attention to the excitement he was creating. After wandering about the streets he saw a garden patch, leaped a high fence, and investigated. Apparently finding little to his liking in the garden he strolled off in the general direction of the Wind River mountains. Hunters, spell-bound at the elk's audacity, forgot to shoot.

Blevins Announces For Controller

J. C. BLEVINS

Mr. J. C. Blevins of the Fourth Ward, wishes to announce his candidacy for the office of County Controller, on an Independent Ticket.

At the Republican Primaries held September 15th, 1931, Mr. Blevins was a candidate for the office of County Auditor and was nominated by a vote of 10,546, the highest vote cast for any candidate for any office that had opposition. Since the primaries the office of County Auditor has been done away with and the office of County Controller instituted.

Inasmuch as Mr. Blevins did not receive the endorsement of the Republican Committeemen, he feels justified in seeking the election on an Independent Ticket.

Mr. Blevins is thoroughly capable of performing the duties of County Controller, as he is familiar with this work, having served as County Auditor a few years ago.

He asks for your support at the coming election, believing the vote cast at the primaries to be the voice of the people and that his many friends will again support him for this new office of County Controller.

New Form Asks For All Details Of Auto Crashes

Check Marks On Fixed Questions Eliminate Long Reports

MUST GIVE TIME AND EXACT PLACE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—A more detailed and at the same time an easier form of accident report for use by motor vehicle operators has been prepared by the department of revenue. It is now being distributed to police departments, motor clubs and the larger garages in the state. It is buff colored and will replace the present green form.

"The new form furnishes the department with all the information it considers necessary with a minimum of effort on the part of those making it out," Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, said today. "Most of the information required can be given by check marks. This does away with much of the writing required by the old form. The old form failed to give us enough specific information. The new one accomplishes this and at the same time is easier on the operator making the report.

"Accident reports are required not merely for the purpose of placing the responsibility for the accident on the operator. The real purpose of the report is for analysis of the case of accidents followed by an effort to overcome that cause."

The new form still demands the name and address of the operator and owner of the automobile, registration number, age and sex, but eliminates operator's license number, certificate of title number, name of person accompanying learner at time of accident, type of brakes and tires and density of traffic at time of accident.

Exact Location

Space for a more accurate location of the scene of the accident is provided. Under the general heading, "Time and Place of Accident", the operator is asked if the accident occurred in a city or town, to designate between what streets or at the intersection of what streets, also the United States and Pennsylvania route numbers.

If the accident occurred on a highway outside a city or town, the operator must also give the route number in addition to the name of the town nearest the scene of the accident. He must give the direction of the city or town from the accident—north, east, south or west, and the distance in miles.

The location data is asked so that the safety division may determine more accurately the cause of the accident. It sometimes develops that accidents are due to highway or street conditions. Placing the exact location may be the means of eliminating the dangerous condition.

Under "Motorist Violations", the operator must check the following: too fast for conditions, on wrong side of road, cutting in, passing on wrong side of road, passing on hill, passing at intersection, failed to signal, forced off roadway, through street—failed to stop.

All Details

Other tabulated information, all of which is new and which can be supplied by check marks, follows:

Condition of vehicle: In apparently good condition, brakes defective, steering gear defective, glaring headlights, one headlight out, both headlights out, tail light out or obscured, no chains—slippery road, puncture or blowout.

Direction of travel: going straight, turning right, turning left, backing, car parked or standing, slowing down or stopping, skidding.

Condition of motorist: Intoxicated, physical defect, confused, view obstructed.

Type of accident: Collision with other motor vehicle, collision with fixed object (tree, pole, fence, culvert, etc.), non-collision accident (overturning, ditching, etc.), collision with street car, collision with bicycle, collision with horse-drawn vehicle, collision with railroad train, collision with animal, collision with other vehicle.

Road location: Between street intersections, street intersection, rural intersection, straight stretch—curve, hill, railroad crossing, bridge.

Road surface: Dry, wet, mud, snow, ice.

Actions of pedestrian: Crossing at intersection with signal, against signal, no signal, diagonally, crossing between intersections, getting on or off other vehicles, standing on safety aisle, walking or playing in street, at work on roadway, riding or hitching on vehicle, coming from behind parked car, not on roadway, walking on rural road with traffic, walking on rural road against traffic.

Condition of pedestrian: Intoxicated, physical defect, confused, view obstructed.

The new form, it is said, will make more complete the record of accidents compiled by the bureau of motor vehicles. In announcing it Commissioner Eynon emphasized the notice at the top face side. It reads: "Every operator involved in a motor vehicle accident resulting in any personal injury or total property damage of $50 or more must file a report with this department within 24 hours. Failure to do so is sufficient reason for suspension of your operating privilege.

Federated Women Take Up Proposed Amendments Today

Women In Convention At York, Pa., Begin Discussions Today

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Oct. 14.—Delegates attending the annual meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women today began considering two proposed amendments to the organization's constitution.

In its stead there would be a choice of officers made by the various district groups and these choices would be submitted to the federation. The election of directors would be subject to ratification of the federation, under the proposed amendment.

The other amendment offered would give voting privileges to juniors of the organization in recognition of their services.

Dressing Event To Be Rally Feature

Scouts Speed To Be Timed In Saturday's Meet; Plans Other Events

Scout troops that are entering boys for the dressing race event on Saturday afternoon, are informed that their entries may wear leather oxford type shoes in this event, providing the shoe has six or more lace holes on each side of the tongue. The rules at present read "shoes at least six inches high."

Those who attend the field meet Saturday afternoon will not miss this event. The entries run ten yards, remove their hats; run ten yards, remove scout belts; run ten yards, remove shirts; run ten yards, remove shoes and stockings; run ten yards across the line. Returning, they dress in the articles as they reach them, and finally step across the finish line. No adjustments or alterations are allowed after the scouts step across this line. The scout who is completely dressed and who is first across the line in this, wins.

"There ought to be very few tardy scouts at school if they all practice this dressing stunt" remarked a local scouter who witnessed this tunt last year. Six other events will also be put on—waterboiling, fire by friction, troop review, signalling, fireman's carry relay and tent pitching. The meet starts at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the George Washington Junior High School playground, and the general public is invited to attend.

Trackless Trolley Will Be Operated In Wisconsin City

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 14.—The trackless trolley is to be substituted for all street railway and motor bus lines in the city of Kenosha, according to an order just issued by the Public Service Commission, approving an agreement between the city and the Wisconsin Gas & Electric company.

Complaint was made to the commission, the order states, that the proposed trackless trolley arrangement "is inadequate as a means of transportation in communities of over 50,000 people."

"The company and the city," the commission says, "contend that the advantages of the trackless trolley system lie in the fact that they are much less noisy, make more rapid progress, and eliminate most of the hazards of receiving and discharging passengers. The cars pull up to the curb to discharge and receive passengers, thus obviating the necessity of passengers stepping into the streets.

Acceleration and deceleration of the vehicle are much more rapid than with a street car or a gas driven vehicle, saving time in making distances. One of the outstanding advantages is the flexibility of the vehicle, that is, its ability to move in and out of heavy traffic. Another advantage is the ease of extension. Neither the cost nor the operation of an extension is as great for a trackless trolley as for a street railway line. The cars which the company anticipates using have more seating capacity than the present street railway cars or motor buses. They are more comfortable for riding and passengers are not subjected to the noise and odors attendant upon operation of motor vehicles. The operation of the trackles trolley has been proven successful in many communities, including Rockford, Ill., Salt Lake City, portions of Chicago, and other communities of the same or greater population than Kenosha.

"The commission can see no reason for not approving the plan of the street railway company to operate trackless trolleys. Certainly the proposal as outlined and agreed to by the city and the company appears to be in the public interest and capable of adequately serving the transportation needs of the city of Kenosha."

The Lawrence County Crisis

With the economic world passing through stormy days, who knows how soon a crisis may face the Lawrence County Surveyor? Seeing this grave danger, certain citizens brought about my nomination for County Surveyor on the Republican ticket.

If elected I will appoint the following Assistant County Surveyors, one in each of the following districts in the County.

Pulaski, Little Beaver, Perry	John Gordon Lamoree
Plain Grove, Scott, North Beaver	James MacDowell Smith Jr
Mahoning, Big Beaver, Wayne	William James Caldwell
Slippery Rock, Shenango, Taylor	Thomas George Blake
Hickory, Neshannock, Union	William Leon Cosel
Wilmington, Washington	Barton E. Richards

Not only will this save the county, prevent a war between China and Japan, restore the English pound, control the flood waters of the Shenango, but still more important will reward each of my self-appointed campaign managers with a public office. The bunch can divide the entire salary. NEVER LET IT BE SAID THAT A REPUBLICAN NOMINEE DIDN'T TAKE CARE OF THE BOYS.

Right To Collect Fee Is Attacked

New Castle Would Recover Money Paid As "Transient Merchant"

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 14.—Whether or not F. E. Welker, New Castle florist, acted as a transient retail merchant when he conducted a store in Butler ten days during the Easter season this year or was merely a farmer selling his own produce, will probably determine the outcome of a case argued before Judge James O. Campbell this morning. The argument concluded, the court took the matter under advisement.

The Butler city council last year passed an ordinance requiring "transient retail merchants" to take out a license before engaging in business in Butler. Welker opened a floral store on North Main street, and paid a license of $200, but did so under protest, with the expressed understanding that if later on he was found to be exempt from the ordinance, the money would be returned.

City Solicitor John H. Wilson represented the city and Attorney C. H. Akens of New Castle, Welker. Welker testified he conducts similar stores in Youngstown, Pittsburgh and other cities.

Mayor Joseph A. Heineman testified that when first approached by Welker, he got the impression Welker intended to establish himself permanently in Butler, but later learned he had leased the Turner building for only ten days. Then, the mayor testified, he told Welker he would have to take out a license, which Welker did, with the understanding that if the court later on determined he was not a "retail merchant" he would have the money refunded.

There is no law, Mr. Akens argued that puts a tax on a man converting his own product into money, and this, he insisted, was all Welker had done. A merchant, he added, is one who buys another's products to sell. Welker did not buy but raised the flowers he sold in Butler, according to Mr. Akens, and was therefore not a "merchant" and should be exempt from license.

Pointing out that the ordinance defined the term "transient retail merchant,' Mr. Akens argued that the state legislature already had defined such terms, and that the city of Butler in passing such an ordinance had merely "given the term a Butler definition, and then taxed it." "We claim the city of Butler has no right to do this," he concluded.

Mr. Wilson took the position that witnesses had shown conclusively that Welker was a transient merchant. Pointing out that the state legislature already had exempted those selling their own produce or farmers from taxes, the city solicitor took the position, however, that Welker is not a farmer, as exempted by the act, was a horticulturist. As such he would be required to take out a license as required by the ordinance, he insisted.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET TONIGHT

Members of the Board of Directors of the New Castle School District will hold their monthly meeting in the office of the board in the Administration Building, this evening at 7:30.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Its seldom that the shadows of other days cast themselves on the present to remind the generation of today of the happenings of twenty, thirty, forty and more years ago, because usually those things that cast their shadow in memories have been effaced in some manner. But today on the front wall of the city building there is a shadow of yesterday to be seen, that was thought to be effaced years ago. It is none other than the sign of a former merchant, which was painted on the wall nearly forty years ago and is to be seen right along side the entrance into the treasury department today. Painted over, very probably, quite a number of times in the past thirty-eight years, yet today it is plainly visible and reads "Lyden's Twentieth Century Hatter and Furnisher." This recalls the fact that the furnishing and hat store for men, which occupied the corner room of the city building forty years ago was operated successfully by Arthur McKinney. It was about 1893, that he sold out to a man named Lyden, who continued the business for a time and who had the sign painted on the brick wall of the city building.

Controller Case Up For Argument

Court To Hear Attorney's Views On Validity Of R. C. McCaslin's Nomination

Arguments will be heard by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers at 4 o'clock this afternoon, on the petition of B. F. Moorhead to have the nomination of R. C. McCaslin for County Controller, declared illegal.

In a petition presented by Mr. Moorhead several days ago it was claimed that when the Republican County Committee nominated McCaslin that there were two votes cast that should not have been counted. This gave the nomination to R. C. McCaslin by one vote over James E. Moorhead.

McCaslin has presented a motion to strike off Moorhead's petition, claiming that the nomination was regular and that the court is without jurisdiction in the case. A rule was granted on Moorhead to show cause why the petition should be stricken off.

It is arguments on this rule that are to be heard this afternoon.

New Trial Granted Condemned Woman

Mrs. Maude Lowther Is Given New Trial By Court In Ohio

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 14.—Sentenced to death last spring for the death of her sweetheart's wife, Mrs. Maude Lowther possessed a new outlook on life today with the granting of a new trial plea by a Court of Appeals. The court held the trial court erred in impanelling the jury.

Mrs. Lowther was charged with conspiring with Tilby Smith to murder his wife. Smith and she were tried and convicted and the death penalty imposed. Smith's appeal for a new trial was denied, however, and an appeal taken to the State Supreme Court.

Stays of execution had been granted pending dispositions of the appeals of the couple although both were to have been executed this month.

WHAT NEW CASTLE SCHOOLS ARE DOING

Under the general caption of "Know Your School Series," a series of bulletins has been prepared by various teachers of the New Castle schools dealing with the activities of the schools.

Each bulletin deals with some particular phase of school life in this city and the entire series can be classed as a full description of the school curriculum here.

Here is one of the series.

THE PRINT SHOP
By J. A. Cox

Printing as a school subject has been taught in this country for many years, but its greatest development has taken place within the past fifteen or twenty years. At the present time there are perhaps four thousand schools—elementary, junior high, senior high, normal, and vocational schools, colleges, universities, and trade schools—in which courses of printing are offered. Strictly speaking, only trade schools properly prepare for the trade; while in schools where manual arts and pre-vocational training is carried on a step in that direction is taken.

Most public schools offer printing as a means toward general education, and its value for this purpose is generally recognized. Educators in every section of the country state that it is one of the most popular courses the schools offer. It not only helps the students who actually work in the print shop, but the entire school is benefited through the printing of the school paper, and through the printing of the many pamphlets, lesson sheets, etc., for school administration. The most marked interest-creator is the school paper, especially when it is entirely the handwork of the student body as is "The Ben Franklin," of the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, and "The Junior Citizen" of the George Washington Junior High School. A valuable educational by-product of the school print shop is the incentive it gives to many students to prepare literary material that will be accepted for publication in these school papers. The art department also takes a hand in the publication by furnishing linoleum-block and other illustrations and planning correct color combinations of ink and paper for the covers.

The general objectives of printing in the public schools are to broaden the field of choice for the life work of the student; to inculcate in children some knowledge of the technique of printing and some standards of good typography; to show the important place printing holds in modern civilization; to acquaint pupils with the splendid opportunities for development and advancement which the printing industry offers; and to teach habits of orderliness, cleanliness, accuracy, and attention to details which are so essential in the printing art.

Printing is taught in the Benjamin Franklin and George Washington Junior High Schools as a manual arts subject. It is a part of general education and is pursued for its educational values. It has many points of contact with academic work, particularly with English, and it justifies itself because of its cultural value as well as its vocational value. It is a practical and valuable adjunct of language teaching because of its emphasis on correct capitalization, punctuation, syllabication, spelling, and paragraphing, and because of the educational content of the matter set and printed by the student. It teaches accuracy in language expression which reading alone never brings out. The dictionary is constantly and intelligently used. Setting letters into words, words into sentences, sentences into pharagraphs, thus preparing the paragraphs, headings, etc. for the papers and pamphlets, is not only a very interesting practice for most boys, but is training direct and purposeful in thoroughness and accuracy. It puts into actual practice lessons taught in the grade schools in the important language subjects.

As a manual arts subject printing possesses all the well known arguments usually given in support of other subjects. It teaches boys efficient habits of doing and thinking. It develops a certain amount of manual dexterity, and care and precision n operations. It trains in neatness, order and system. It gives experience in a basic and significant industry. It teaches valuable lessons in cooperation and social service. Boys learn to apply valuable industrial principles by practicing them. While printing as taught in the New Castle schools is not intended to prepare boys for entrance into the trade, it gives them an intimate acquaintance with print shop practice, and helps the boy who thinks he might follow the printing trade as a vocation decide the question without spending a year or two in a commercial shop and then perhaps discover he has made a wrong choice. A number of boys have found themselves in this type of work and are now working in local print shops as apprentices, and more boys would be doing the same if the opportunity existed.

The methods of instruction in school print shops vary widely. Some shops have only enough cases and type to enable students to learn the lay of the case and set their names in type; other shops range from this meager outfit to elaborate equipments that cost $25,000 to $30,000 or more. The New Castle school shops are very moderately equipped with only enough machinery and type to meet the requirements of this particular school system, and provide for classes of from twelve to twenty-four students. The invoice for both shops, the Ben Franklin and the George Washington, will not exceed $7,000, and are maintained and conducted on a most economical basis.

The courses of study vary greatly in the different types of schools, and range from nine weeks to four years, depending on the kind of school; from meager instruction in a general shop to a full time instructor by a printer-teacher, and from regular periods of one hour a week to thirty hours weekly. The regularly scheduled periods in the New Castle school shops average about four times a week for eighteen weeks, with the exception of the boys who prefer the print shop to any other shop and who take advantage of all the time they can get in it.

Hand composition is taught in all public school print shops, while press work is taught in about 70 percent of the school shops. These are the basic operations of the printing industry, and both are taught in the New Castle school shops. The principles of type measurement design, harmony, layout, etc. are the same in hand and machine composition, while make-ready on the platen press, press feeding, ink manipulation, etc. are fundamental practices in press work.

Few people realize the amount of printing material needed in a school system the size of New Castle. The school shops print the school papers "The Ben Franklin" and "The Junior Citizen" every two weeks, the "School Board Bulletin" three times a year, grade books, booklets, monographs, bulletins, lesson sheets, programs, stationary for the business offices, etc., and more than 300 different forms that are in daily use in the senior, junior, elementary, and trade schools. The type for these forms is set by hand by students, but with the most painstaking and careful supervision by the instructors. This gives the students real experience in the basic principles of print shop practice, as well as maintaining his interest by producing a usable product.

Very frequently the school shops have requests to do commercial work, but it is the fixed policy of the administration that no work be done in the shops except school printing. The reason for this is obvious. To enter into competition with local printing establishments would not only be commercializing student labor, but would be doing injustice to the New Castle printing employer and employee who pay taxes to support the schools.

The school print shops are not supposed to be self-supporting any more than any other branch of the educational curriculum, but they are conducted at a minimum of cost to the taxpayers, as well as giving the best instruction possible to students in this most popular subject.

Printing enters into every phrase of life—business, social, and intellectual—and even a limited knowledge of the subject is useful to everyone.

Explain Paralysis Effects On The Nervous System

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Infantile paralysis is a disease of late summer and autumn. There are always a small number of cases in the United States somewhere. This year the Atlantic seaboard has had a severe epidemic.

The disease is due to infection with a germ or one of the filterable viruses. It damages the nervous system with especial ferocity. The mysterious feature of the disease is to explain how the germ gets to the nervous system without affecting any superficial structures.

Most infections show by what path they enter the body. Typhoid fever is conveyed by water or food and is absorbed through the digestive tract, leaving inflammatory patches in the intestines at the point of entrance. Diphtheria is air borne and the signs of disease are all in the air passages. But differing from these, infantile paralysis enters the body, passes mysteriously through all the outer defenses and attacks the nervous system, well guarded and situated deeply inside the body structures. The theory is that it gets in through the nose or throat, but nothing certain is known.

A way to explain the disease is to say that the virus has an affinity for the nervous system—just as certain chemicals have an affinity for each other. It is a very elective affinity because the only part of the nervous system that is affected are the central cells of the motor nerves. It is their destruction which causes the paralysis.

Paralysis may be caused by disease of many different parts of the nervous system. It may be compared for purposes of understanding to a telephone exchange. If your telephone will not work it may be because your own house set is out of whack—which would correspond to disease of the muscle itself. Or it may be because the wire from your house to the local exchange is broken—similar to neuritis, such as the victims of "jake" paralysis had. Or your local exchange may be destroyed by fire—and this is the condition in infantile paralysis. A last kind of telephone trouble would result from the control exchange burning down—which is similar to what occurs in the paralysis following apoplexy.

Just as if your local telephone exchange burned, central exchange could not get a call through to your house, so in infantile paralysis the intermediary motor nerve cell in the spinal cord is destroyed and the motor center in the brain cannot get a voluntary impulse through to the nerve fiber that goes to the muscle controlled by the spinal cord motor cell. The muscle is all right (until later, when it atrophies) and so is the nerve fiber and the brain.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

R. L.: "Will you please advise me whether buttermilk and sour cream are fattening?"

Answer: The question is frequently asked in that form and cannot be answered satisfactorily. It shows a complete misunderstanding of the fundamental principles of reducing diets. All foods are fattening if you eat enough of them. If you drank nothing else but buttermilk and drank the same amount of it that you would whole sweet milk, you would get half as many calories. In that sense it is less fattening than whole milk. But if you drank only buttermilk instead of an equal amount of unsweetened lemonade it would be more fattening. The elements that are left out of the question are—how much buttermilk do you drink? and—is it fattening compared to what? There are no foods which have especial fattening tendencies or especial thinning qualities.

Mrs.—.: "Will you kindly explain why girls lose their figure after childbirth?"

Answer: The explanation is not simple. Mechanical factors are partly responsible—the abdomen enlarges during pregnancy and stays that way because the muscles have been stretched. The same thing applies to the breasts. The enlargement of the hips and thighs is attributed to a disturbance of the secretion of the ductless glands.

VINDICATED, FREED, AFTER PRISON TERM

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., Oct. 14.—Twenty-three years in prison for a murder he did not commit has failed to arouse any bitterness in Jesse Lucas who returned to his home here a pardoned man following the death bed confession of the slayer.

"I have been vindicated, that is enough," Lucas exclaimed when he was met at the prison gate by Mayor T. W. B. Wright of his home town.

The confession was made by George R. Pond, a farmer of Decker, Ind., who on his death bed admitted killing Clyde Showalter, a young stock buyer, twenty-six years ago and for whose murder Lucas was sentenced.

Lucas' widowed mother also was tried and convicted for the murder but was freed at a new trial.

Slayer Is Given Death In Chair, Thanks Jurist

(International News Service)

LAGRANGE, Ind., Oct. 14.—"I thank you, judge; I appreciate the sentence."

With these words and a broad smile on his face, Herbert Johnston, 33, of Sturgis, Mich., received the news that he must die in the electric chair on February 12, 1932 for the murder of Bert Frye, store keeper of Seybert, Ind., during a holdup.

The remarks were made to Circuit Judge Clyde C. Carlin, who had just pronounced the death sentence imposed by a jury in Lagrange county circuit court.

Then Johnston, an ex-convict, turned about and shook hands with prosecutor R. L. Foster and others near him.

League Council Meets In Secret

League Of Nations Council Members Confer On Issues Of Manchurian Conflict

JAPANESE-CHINESE DELEGATES BARRED

(International News Service)

GENEVA, Oct. 14.—Like a jury retiring to reach a verdict, members of the League of Nations council, with the delegates of Japan and China excluded, went into secret conference today to discuss the issues of the Manchurian conflict and determine the future course of the League in maintaining peace in the Far East.

Although the council found itself in a temporary deadlock, arising from the conflicting complaints and divergent demands of the Japanese and Chinese governments, hopes for a peaceful solution were expressed by the Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and acting president of the council.

After the causes and extent of the conflict have been determined, Briand declared, the League will act with "necessary firmness," although Japan, through her chief delegate, Kenkichi Yoshisawa, has served notice she will not accept League intervention.

Equally spirited was the demand of China, through Dr. Alfred Sze, for definite action by the League to end the conflict, and his declaration that China would not consent to direct negotiations with the Tokio government so long as Japanese troops remained in control of Chinese territory.

LARGEST MAGNET NEARING COMPLETION

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—The largest electro-magnet ever devoted to research, and one of the four largest of any description in the world, will be in operation on the University of California campus by Christmas.

This was announced today by Robert G. Sproul, president, following the return of Prof. E. O. Lawrence of the department of physics, from New York, where he obtained financial assistance for the project from the Federal Telegraph company, General Electric company, Chemical Foundation and Research Corporation.

With it Prof. Lawrence hopes to be able to study the nature of matter by transmitting one element into another.

Drives An Auto With Only Air As Motive Power

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Roy J. Meyers, inventor, drove about Los Angeles in an auto propelled by air instead of gasoline.

After six years of research Meyers proved to skeptical engineers his scheme was practical by driving his auto more than 100 miles on a tankful of compressed air.

A six-cylinder radial type engine connected with a tank containing 500 pounds of air, furnshed motive power.

Most of the air, which forces pistons up and down, is recaptured and recompressed by a motor attachment.

To circumvent cooling of the air by decompression, the tank is heated electrically by a generator, also attached to the motor. The heating, Meyers pointed out, expands the air, increasing the power.

The car, without gears, operates by a valve. Although it was geared to a maximum of 35 miles an hour today, it can develop much greater speeds, he said.

Meyers hopes to develop an airplane motor on the same principles. The safety factor would increase with the use of gasoline obviated, he pointed out.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Hard Times Hit Even Farm Folk

Country Can Be Ideal Place For Youngsters —Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

As I receive a large number of letters from parents on the farm, please let me say a word concerning them and their home life. Anyway, I feel we have had some experiences in common, since I spent my childhood on a farm far from any city.

Of course times have changed since then. The automobile has come, the radio, all sorts of farm and household machinery, better schools and good mail delivery. It is not so lonely on the farm as it used to be.

The farm can be made an almost ideal place for bringing up children, provided parents afford opportunities for frequent coming together, particularly of the toddlers. Unfortunately the older children are often lured to the roadhouses, than which there may be few worse places. Wise parents provide frequent parties in their homes for their children.

The 4-H clubs have done much for the social and creative needs of farm youth. I take my hat off to the many fine men and women volunteering their services as leaders of those clubs. Such organizations help county adolescents to find self-expression and social outlet and encourage many farm children not to leave the farm for city life.

True it is that this economic crisis has hit the farmer very hard, but it cannot rob the children of the fine fresh air and sunshine, of the birds and flowers and trees and open spaces. Except for the drouth stricken area, there have been no rural breadlines; farm families have had food. Best of all, a good milk supply is generally available. At little expense most can have eggs and, by a little foresight, most can have vegetables the year around. There is not the rent problem on the farm nor, as a rule, the crowded house.

Unfortunately, those living on the farm often do curious things. Some deny their children ample milk and eggs, while with the money for these products, feed the family more expensive and less wholesome foods. Milk is the cheapest known human food, all things considered, even in the city. All the more is this so in the country.

Many little children on the farm get little sunshine, are rarely out of doors. Even to this day, the average city child under five gets more fresh air and sunshine than his country cousin. And most curious of all, tuberculosis is still more prevalent in the country than the city.

Time was when the country home was so poorly built that fresh air freely played through its cracks. But the modern country house defies the wind, and comparatively few dwellers there sleep with wide-open windows. Many who live in the country think they don't need so much fresh air. They beguile themselves. None of us can get enough. How much greater are the opportunities for young infants and toddlers of the rural home to bask in the sunshine, with little or no need of watching by adults!

And then the toddler, who must forever be in action, has on the farm great possibilities for out-of-door activity and space almost unlimited, if his parents render them available.

Wise mothers on the farm see to it that their children, from early infancy, are exposed to the fresh air and sunshine in great abundance.

Intends To Start New Capitol Roof

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—John L. Hanna, secretary of property and Supplies, has announced the appointment of Clayton J. Lappley, Harrisburg architect, to make a survey of the roof of the main Capitol building with a view to starting work of replacing the old roof at an early date.

Hanna said that in view of the unemployment, he intended to start the work as soon as possible if the survey indicated that the weather would not interfere with the operation. He said that at the present time he could see no reason why winter weather would obstruct the work.

The last session of the Legislature appropriated $200,000 for a new tile roof to replace the old one which has become defective. Hanna said that the survey will show whether structural changes would be necessary in the application of the new roof.

This staggering sum was totaled during Capone's trial in Chicago for evading his Federal income tax. How the $700 is arrived at is shown on the margin of Al, himself. Fancy paying $10 for a pair of garters or $2 for a collar. Me, oh, my!

Chute-Chute to Safety

Just two seconds after a fire drill alarm was sounded in a Brooklyn, N. Y., hospital, these nurses whizzed through the modern fire escape chute which runs from the top or fourth floor of the institution to the ground. In the demonstration it was shown that the hospital's population, with all its patients, attendants and nurses, could be brought to the ground from three to five minutes after the first alarm was sounded. With the old-type fire escape it would have taken at least half an hour. Mattresses are used for coasting down the chutes.

Five Typical Cities Exceed Chest Quotas

Survey Shows That People With Money Are More Liberal This Year

HELD INDICATION OF BUSINESS RETURN

People who have money are giving it more freely to help those who have none, and are those helping to take the sting out of the depression for millions.

This fact has been revealed in a survey of five typical American cities, where it was found that all had exceeded their Community Chest quotas. The report, cheery with dollars signs, indicates that most of the other 380 cities in the United States and Canada who have Community Chests will be equally liberal.

The millions of dollars that American men and women will pour into community chests this year, will feed, clothe, house, and warm several million less fortunate families.

The money, coming from those who have more money than they need for essentials, flowing into the current business is expected to by business leaders to aid materially in encouraging recovery of normal trade.

The cities which were covered in this survey were Wichita Falls, Tex.; Green Bay, Wis.; Seattle, Wash.; Duluth, Minn.; and Elgin, Illinois.

Some of these cities had oversubscribed their quotas by fifty per cent, and many exceeded their quotas for the first time since the Community Chest was established in their cities.

The record made elsewhere is indicative of a growing belief in the Community Chest, and should result in New Castle's Community Chest going over the top also.

ARTHUR COMES AGAIN

Editor of News:—

I cannot agree with Arthur Brisbane's views on preparedness and armament, and that the law of "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is out of date and no longer functioning. But I can agree with the following quotation from a recent editorial, which I am asking you to print for the benefit of your readers.

"A Colorado psychopacathic hospital is studying a strange case of catalepsy. An unfortunate man stands rigid, hour after hour, his arms outstretched, never moving. He was found in that condition in a corn field, his hallucination making himself believe himself a scarecrow. Science with deal with and perhaps cure him.

"But who or what will cure this nation, that assumed a scarecrow attitude in 1929, and still sticks to it?

"That poor calaleptic needs only to realize that he is not a scarecrow, and this nation needs only to recover from its fright and realize that the end of the world has not come.

"We have everything we ever had, and if we never get back those ten billions lent to Europe, that won't ruin us. Ten billions represent only 10 per cent of one year's total income in the United States.

"We haven't lost our farms, lives, men or money.

"What are we whinning about? Why can't we go to work, manufacture, buy, sell, employ and accept the invitation of the world to be the world's banker?"

To the above I wish to add my sincere, hearty and unqualified "Amen".

ARTHUR WRIGHT.

Racketeer And Wife Missing

Detectives Probing Deaths Of Two Racketeers Find Suspects Have Fled

BELIEVED GIRL WAS LURED AWAY

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—Disappearance of the pretty 15-year-old wife of the missing George Caffare, cousin of Sam (Toto) Amarosa, who with Jack Palmere was slain in the feud for control of the local yeast and sugar racket, today hampered police further in their efforts to solve the double slaying.

Detectives Frank Dodson and William Harris who went to Caffare's home in Turtle Creek to question his wife, found the young woman missing. Caffare, known to have had business relations with the two slain men, disappeared soon after their bodies were found.

May Have Been Lured.

Although members of the family professed no alarm over the disappearance of Elizabeth Caffare, detectives were of the opinion that she may have been lured away to prevent her telling police of the business dealings of her husband.

Meanwhile, attaches of the district attorney's office prepared to secure the indictment of (Little Joe) Spinelli, the "silent" partner of Palmere and Amarosa, with whom they frequently quarreled. The indictment was expected to be handed down by the jury today.

Spinelli, according to police, had sufficient cause to wish the two sugar and yeast kings "out of the way."

Alien Population Of State Decreases

Few Aliens Are Entering United States At Present Time

(Special To The News)

This contrasted with the 513 former alien residents of the State who left the country during the month, showing an emigrant excess of 175 per cent.

In the country as a whole, on the other hand, aliens coming in numbered only 4,090 while those going out totaled 9,541, showing a decrease rate of only 109 per cent.

Immigrant aliens coming into the State increased from 109 in July to 185 in August while aliens leaving the State for another country increased from 413 to 513.

A "Catch" in Small of Back Often Had to Get Up!

Meshoppen, Pa. —"About five years ago, sharp burning twinges across my kidneys made me mighty miserable," said R. W. Aylesworth, Box 3. "Whenever I went to stoop over I got a 'catch' in the small of my back that fairly took my breath away. My kidneys appeared to be weak, too, for I often had to get up at night and the kidney secretion was filled with sediment. I had constant headache and had no energy, but Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets gave me fine relief."

Colleges Consider Appeal From Young For Charity Games

University Of Pennsylvania And Penn State Are Giving Charity Game Serious Thought

Temple And Villanova Will Also Donate To Unemployed Fund By Gate Receipts

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—The University of Pennsylvania is considering Owen D. Young's appeal for contribution from each college and university of the nation of the receipts of a football game for the relief of the unemployed, Dr. Leroy Mercer, head of the department of physical education, revealed today. A statement will be forthcoming in a few days regarding Penn's part in the relief plans, Dr. Mercer said.

Dr. Charles E. Beury, president of Temple University, said Mr. Young's appeal had not yet been received officially by his institution.

Temple & Villanova.

Charles F. McGeehan, graduate manager of athletics at Villanova college, also said Mr. Young's request had not yet been received. When it arrives it will be taken up by the board of athletics, McGeehan said.

Last season both Temple and Villanova contributed the net proceeds of a game to the relief of Philadelphia's unemployed. They are expected to do the same this year for Mr. Young's committee. The games were played on Franklin Field, the University of Pennsylvania's gridiron, the latter institution contributing free use of its grounds as its part towards unemployment relief.

Plan Approved.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 14.—Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of Pennsylvania State College, today expressed himself as "very much in sympathy" with Owen D. Young's plan to relieve the plight of jobless through the contribution of the proceeds of one college football game to the emergency relief funds now being raised.

Dr. Hetzel pointed out that such a plan had been put forward by the athletic authorities of the college some time ago and that negotiations for a post-season game, with the gross proceeds to aid the unemployed, already were under way.

It has not been determined which college team will take the gridiron against Penn State in the charity contest.

Reports Outbreak Of Typhoid Fever

Twenty Cases Are Found In State In Last Two Weeks

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Doctor J. Moore Campbell, chief of the bureau of communicable disease, State Department of Health, said today that the only recent outbreak has occurred in a mining town in Greene county. Over a period of several weeks a total of 20 cases with two deaths have been reported to the Department.

"The significant feature connected with the Department's investigation," said Doctor Campbell, "lies in the fact that less than a year ago the Department offered to immunize against typhoid fever in that locality, but this protection was refused. Unquestionably this unfortunate situation would have been eliminated had the offer of the Department been accepted. The original case came in from Fayette county, either as an unreported or unrecognized typhoid victim."

If the Democratic party seriously hopes to carry Missouri next year, it will be overlooking a bet most decidedly if it failed to nominate the Hon. "Pepper" Martin for vice-president.—The Roanoke Times.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Every week sees a new telephone anecdote going the rounds. People in New York talk about their telephones as much as they talk over them. Nomination for the most amusing of the current yarns:

Not many months ago the company inaugurated the system of adding a key number to the name of every exchange. What had been, for example, Murray Hill 7601, became Murray Hill 2-7601. When patrons forget to add the key figure, the operator corrects them thus: "That is now Murray Hill 2-7601."

Last week, accordingly, Mr. George M. Cohan picked up his receiver and asked for Bryant 1009. Brightly the operator responded: "That is now Bryant 9-1009. There is no such number."

SERVICE

At a corner fruit stand in the Sutton place district this morning I paused to examine a specimen of prickly pear. The fruit looked singularly forbidding and I couldn't recall ever having tasted one. Trying to make up my mind whether to risk a lacerated lip for a new experience, I saw the proprietor hurrying over.

"Do not be afraid," he chirped. "Eeet ees ver' eesy, Meester. See, I show you." He plucked a large pear from a separate box and ritualistically pulled the thick skin down, so that a cone of pink meat was exposed. Whereupon he gobbled the fruit with a loud smacking. "I eet seex like that today," he informed me, grinning.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Moaning is not everywhere. I hear none from Kay Brush, whose "Red-Headed Woman" is on the best seller lists after having completed a serial run which made the Saturday Evening Post think hard times were ended. The novel has netted Kay in the neighborhood of $100,000 already. This has been her most prosperous year. And her husband, H. Charles Winans, the banker, engineered successfully—on the same day "Red-Headed Woman" was completed—a South American coffee-for-wheat swap with the United States which brought him a fortune in commissions.

RUDY'S RATING

The rise and fall of Mr. Rudy Vallee in the estimation of his "public" is an extraordinary commentary on fame in Manhattan today. I was reminded of this the other night when Mr. and Mrs. Vallee drifted, dancing, past my table. I did not hear a single masculine remark to the effect that Rudy looked like a sap.

Instead, a lady at my left, who was once one of the crooner's staunchest worshippers, murmured something about being bored with the whole matter. In short, as Rudy rises in the regard of men, he appears to be losing ground as a heart breaker.

Perhaps this is due to the ascendance of a hardier, slightly gansterish type, as the idol of high school girls who in the beginning lifted Rudy to his pinnacle. Or again, it may be due to the young man's excellent performance in the current "Scandals"—where he displays a willingness to be joshed and mildly derided few believed he could muster.

Ever since Rudy's marriage, male opinion of him has been shifting. At current quotations he is a good fellow, even possessed of some talent. Meanwhile the girls are making eyes at plump, sleek Mr. Morton Downey and hard, slangy Mr. James Cagney. Gary Cooper is in on the crushes, too, and Clark Gable, who bites nails.

Alleged Slayer Placed In Jail At Huntingdon

Martin Gearhart, 35, Slayer Of Mrs. Naomi Peal Long, Held By Police

(International News Service)

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Oct. 14.—Martin Gearhart, 35, alleged slayer of Mrs. Naomi Peal Long, 30, was held in Huntingdon county jail today while police attempted to piece out a logical reconstruction of the tragedy.

Police said Gearhart admitted the shooting.

The prisoner, according to police, had been paying attentions to Veda Booher, 19, who lived with Mrs. Long and her husband, Marvin. Mrs. Long resented the attentions of Gearhart to the girl, police said.

It was learned that a quarrel between Gearhart and Mrs. Long preceded the shooting.

Make Record In Soft Coal Mines

No Major Disasters Reported In Pennsylvania In Last Year

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14. — In Pennsylvania bituminous mines which produce more than one fourth of the output of coal in the United States, the past two and a half years have not been marred by a single accident. Not since March 21, 1929, when the Kinloch Mine disaster at Parnassus snuffed out 46 lives, has a major disaster occurred, according to officials of the Department of Mines.

In establishing this record of safety, all mine accident records set during the last thirty-six years were shattered. At the present rate, fatalities in the bituminous mines during 1931 should be well under two hundred. Last year, two hundred and ninety-nine lives were lost in the soft coal region. This was the first time in a normal working year that the fatality figures broke under the three hundred mark since 1900.

Coupled with this safety achievement in Pennsylvania's mining industry is the unusual fact that in over a year, not a single miner has been fatally burned in a gas ignition.

At the present rate of accident prevention in the soft coal fields of the state, it is believed that over 500,000 tons of coal per fatality will be mined this year—an unusual average in bituminous annals in comparison with a general average in the United States for the last twenty years of 250,000 tons per fatal accident.

Linked with a recent statement by Scott Turner, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, this record in the coal fields of Pennsylvania takes on added significance, officials said. Turner declared recently that the coal mining industry in the United States was well on its way to a banner year of safety. During the first seven months of 1931, he said, only 838 fatalities occurred, 321 less than during the same period last year. In percentage this represented a reduction of 27.7 against a decline of coal production amounting only to 16.2 per cent.

It can't last much longer. Safety deposit boxes will hold only so much currency.

FALL DAYS WAKEN APPETITES FOR FISH

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Autumn paints an alluring picture for the fisherman of Pennsylvania. In shallows and lily pockets sharp fins cut the water close in the wake of a skipping school of minnows. Bass and pickeral, perch and wall eye pike, game fish of the inland waters, bring a reign of terror to the harassed droves of shiners and small food fish.

An increasing number of anglers are finding that the streams of Pennsylvania offer exceptional sport in October, according to O. M. Deibler, Commissioner of Fisheries. A tang of frost in the air brings to the sportsman who wades the streams much of the exhilaration attendant to late fall hunting.

Although live bait, minnows, stone catfish, and helgramites are acc lures with the cooling of the water, artificial bait of the plug variety plays an important role in teasing big bass and pike to strike.

Heavy takes of pickerel are common at this season of the year. Voracious feeders, these fish during August fall into a fasting period. In some instances, their jaws become sore to such an extent that little food is taken. Cool days and nights of autumn bring back to the pickerel much of the killing instinct that has brought it the surname "wolf of the fresh water." In fall fishing, artificial baits take heavy toll from the ranks of these graceful fish.

In the North Branch of the Susquehanna, generally recognized as good bass water by the angling fraternity, some of the finest small mouth bass of the season come to the landing net during the month of October.

Owen D. Young Makes Appeal To Grid Teams For Unemployed Relief

Chairman Of Hoover Committee Asks That Colleges Play Benefit Football Games

Army-Navy Game Will Head List At New York City —Is Practicable Plan

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief, today appealed to every school and college eleven in the United States on behalf of the jobless.

He asked that each team give the gross proceeds, less actual expenses, of at least one football game this fall to the emergency relief funds now being raised throughout the nation.

Young urged that if necessary post-season games be arranged so the unemployed relief contests may be played.

Plan Has Backing

The plan has the backing of many college presidents, it was announced. Opinion of college heads in various sections of the country was sought by Young as to the feasibility of the benefit games and while all did not give their approval, so many did that Young was satisfied the plan was practicable.

Decision of the big ten conference to play benefits was reached as a result of Young's inquiries, it was announced and the plan for the Army-Navy game was reached under similar circumstances.

Arrangements for many post-season games are now under way.

In his call today Young placed emphasis on the hope the games would be made student activities so that "in this emergency the students may have a part, with the rest of us in meeting it."

Seniors In Charge

Young suggested that officers of the Senior Class in each school and college have charge of the charity game arrangements.

In his call the president's committee chairman said he thought it an excellent thing for the students of the Nation to recognize the unemployment emergency and to have a part in aiding the unfortunate.

As Young's nationwide appeal was made plans were launched here for the 1931 Army-Navy charity game in the Yankee stadium on December 12. Some of the details for the game were announced, following a meeting of officials of the military and naval academies in Philadelphia.

Tickets will be sold for the same prices as at last year, $10 for box seats and $5 for stand seats. The tickets will be divided equally between the two academies and the sales will be conducted by the Athletic Associations of the two service schools.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert has donated the use of Yankee stadium for the Army-Navy battle.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Every college and school football team in the United States has been asked by Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of the President's organization on unemployment relief to play at least one game for the benefit of emergency relief funds this fall. If the game cannot be played during the regular season. Young asked that special games be held.

Pepper Martin, hero of the world series is to receive an increase in pay. He now draws $4,500 a season and the raise will be "considerable". The amount, however, has not yet been set by Manager Gabby Street of the champion Cardinals.

Chicago Cubs have purchased Third Baseman Stanley Hack from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league for $50,000, it was reported today. It is believed Lester Bell will be sent to Sacramento as part payment.

Johnny Datto will not be permitted to box under 125 pounds in Pittsburgh in the future. He blamed his showing against Mose Butch on the low weight of 123 which he was required to weigh.

Schaaf To Give Tuffy Griffith Another Battle

Sharkey's Impressive Victory Over Carnera Causes Heavyweights To Become Active

MANY PROMISING BOUTS ARRANGED

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Jack Sharkey's impressive victory over Primo Carnera on Monday, one of the best bouts of the year, had acted as a tonic on the heavyweight boxing division today and several intriguing matches were on the fire.

Manager Johnny Buckley, with two aces up his sleeve in Sharkey and Erne Schaaf, is besieged with offers. He conferred at length yesterday with Promoter Jimmy Johnston, soon to be general manager of Madison Square Garden, and Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium.

Schaaf, who soon will give Tuffy Griffith a return match in Chicago, probably on Oct. 30, and also will meet W. L. (Young) Stribling here later, is being groomed for a bout with Carnera at Madison Square Garden, Buckley revealed.

Schaaf, a modest, quiet chap, stepped out of character to announce today that he could flatten Carnera, who lasted fifteen rounds with Sharkey after being given a break by the referee in the fourth round.

"I'll knock out that big Turk in jig time," declared Sharkey's protege.

Kolodjeski Out Of Local Lineup

Kolodjeski Sustains Broken Bone In Right Hand In Washington Tilt

NICK URAM BEGINS TO WORKOUT AGAIN

May Use Kominic To Throw Passes—H. Workman Out Of Lineup

Another serious blow has been struck the New Castle high football team. Joe Kolodjeski, promising halfback will be out of the local high school grid team lineup for the next three weeks as a result of an injury which he sustained in the Washington-New Castle game last Friday night.

A bone in his right hand is broken and it will take several weeks to heal. At first the injury was thought to be a minor one but it later developed into a serious one. This is just another casualty which has followed the local team all season. Kolodjeski was one of the best forward passing prospects Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has had in a number of years. Due to a late entry and a week's illness the local halfback was just beginning to master the signals and formations.

The local mentor planned to use him extensively in the passing department next Friday against the strong Woodward eleven. In the practice yesterday the coaches were experimenting with Kominic, former Ben Franklin gridder. Nick Uram who is just recovering from the effects of a broken collar bone reported for workout Monday and Tuesday.

While he will be unable to get in the Woodward game he is endeavoring to get in the best of condition and is eagerly awaiting the word from the doctor that he may play again. Harold Workman another gridder on the casualty shelf also reported for practice Tuesday afternoon, the first time in two weeks. He was injured in the McKees Rocks tilt. He will probably be ready for the Altoona game.

Gene Burns who was out of the squad due to scholastic difficulties is back again. He looked good in the workout Tuesday afternoon. Captain Harry Crisci and John Uram were not allowed to work out Tuesday in the scrimmage. The latter is bruised and sore from the Washington game while Captain Crisci is suffering from a back injury he aggravated last Friday night. These boys however will be ready for next Friday night.

Pirates May Get Coast Manager

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14— The Pittsburgh Pirates were still without a pilot today following the resignation last week of Manager Jewell Ens. Possibility that Nick Williams may become the next leader was expressed in baseball circles with the news that Williams has just resigned his post with the San Francisco Seals.

Three Former Titan Stars Are College Football Coaches

(Special to The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 14.—Three former Westminster football stars are now college coaches. They are DeOrmond "Tuss" McLaughry, head coach of Brown, who captained the Westminster grid team in 1913 and coached Westminster during 1915, 1916, 1918 and 1921 seasons; Al Wittmer, head coach at Princeton, who played halfback on the 1916 Titan team and then transferred to Princeton, and John D. Lawther, captain of the 1918 and 1921 grid teams, who is now head coach at Westminster.

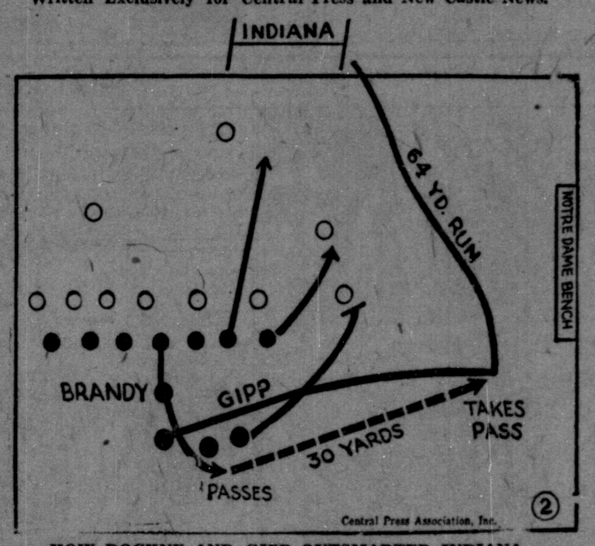

It is interesting to note that in 1916 when Al Wittmer was a halfback at Westminster, "Tuss" McLaughry was head coach. Brown, coached by McLaughry, defeated Princeton, coached by Wittmer, by a 19-7 score last Saturday.

Earl "Miz" Dart, who played a tackle on the 1914 and 1915 Westminster teams, is now assistant coach of the Titan eleven, Dart went to Grove City in 1916 where he played tackle for the Grovers. On this same 1916 Grove City, Maude Crum, now head coach of Allegheny, was a backfield star. Crum transferred to Princeton the next year as did Wittmer from Westminster.

Rockne's Best Plays

By COACH EDWARD (SLIP) MADIGAN

Coach of St. Mary's College, California.
Written Exclusively for Central Press and New Castle News.

HOW ROCKNE AND GIPP OUTSMARTED INDIANA

NUMBER TWO

Knute Rockne always said his greatest human football creation was George Gipp. He developed the Four Horsemen and other great stars after Gipp's time but so far as "Rock" was concerned there was only one Gipp. He thought that up to the very last.

On the night of "Rock's" last game —Notre Dame's artistic victory over U. S. C. at Los Angeles last December—a triumph that I think "Rock" regarded as the greatest football achievement of his career, he remarked to me that "there'll never be another Gipp."

Like Rockne, Gipp had lived and like Rockne, Gipp had died. Rockne died after his greatest game. Gipp died a month after completing his brilliant gridiron career at Notre Dame. Gipp died, like Rockne, casting caution to the winds.

Gipp had broken his shoulder in the Indiana game a few weeks before but no one knew about it but Gipp until several days later. That Indiana game was a fine example of Rockne's resourcefulness in a pinch and the way he could play upon situations.

Things were breaking fine for Gipp and Notre Dame that year, 1920. Notre Dame was headed toward a national championship with only a few "setup" contests left to bar the door.

So we went down to Indianapolis one early November Saturday to pile up a big score on poor, old Indiana and continued on unobstructed with our championship aspirations.

Even that day Gipp was being toasted in the headlines as the "brains of the Notre Dame," and "America's gift to the gridiron," and "the greatest since Heston and Thorpe."

Well, what happened? Before we realized just what HAD happened Notre Dame was trailing 10 to 0 and "poor, old" Indiana was giving us a fine shellacking

Through super-human efforts of Norman Barry, halfback, we managed to shove over a touchdown, but Barry gave out and we came into the fourth quarter still trailing, 10 to 6.

Rockne had to reach down into his bag of tricks that day. He always kept something in reserve, but even when he sprung this one it looked tough.

"Rock" decided to play upon Gipp's All-American potentialities. Gipp hadn't been in all afternoon up to the closing minutes of play. When "Rock" finally sent George in the Indiana players swarmed all around him, patted Gipp on the back and told him how good he was.

Gipp was a born actor, born to the part he played that afternoon.

Quarterback Joe Brandy called a play and Gipp immediately yelled "Signals off!" and whispered a counter signal in Brandy's ear. An inconsequential play followed.

Again Brandy called signals and again Gipp bawled, "Signals off!"

Brandy seemed pretty sore about this. "Hey, you big prima donna," he snapped, "I'm the quarterback on this team!"

The Hoosier players across the line got a big kick out of that.

"Oh, you All-American!" they bawled.

Gipp threw his headgear to the ground.

"If I can't run this team," he snorted, "I'm not going to play." And he started across the field diagonally toward the sidelines.

As Gipp strode away wtih Brandy snarling—or apparently so—at him, the ball was snapped, Brandy took it, passed it to Gipp and Gipp pranced 64 yards to a touchdown. It won the game 13 to 10 and Notre Dame later won the national gridiron title.

The next morning one of the papers came out with the following headline:

"Gip, Under the Influence of Brandy, Beats Indiana, 13 to 10."

There are thirty-three college football teams that have not as yet been beaten. Oh, now we mean 33 of the biggest ones, the schools able to afford more than one or two professors. Of this list, that glares forth at you, there will likely be several among the missing when the roll is called next week. The list like your bank roll gets smaller each time it's mentioned.

The Pitt Panthers and W. and J. are keeping Western Pennsylvania in the running. Each has won three and lost nor tied none. Pitt is not likely to lose prestige this week as they will tangle with Western Reserve of Cleveland at the Stadium. The Panthers are an up and coming ball club and they are headed toward the National Collegiate grid title.

Paul Reider, former New Castle hight quarterback is making the Pitt Alumni forget the Hollerans, Davies, Welchs and Usanas. One of the Pittsburgh sport writers the other day said that Reider was bidding for a place along side the greatest stars that the Pitt Panthers have ever known, which should have made Mr. Reider feel good even if he did have a headache. Well here in New Castle we are pulling for Reider and MacMurdo to be All-American choices.

It has been called to our attention by "Sunny" Howley and Lloyd Keely that another former New Castle High football star is making good on the chalked field, and it is none other than our old friend Earl "Bearcat" Turk. It develops that Turk is making football history for the U. S. Coast Guard team located at New London, Conn. Turk after graduating here played at Duquesne University and Rider College. Turk is starring at a halfback job on the Coast Guard outfit. When he played in High School here, Turk was a clever passer and punter, and one of the fastest ball carriers that ever put a cleat in Taggart Field.

That game carded for New Wilmington this week should be a daisy. Westminster and Grove City in football or basketball always play hard and fast against each other. It has been that way for many, many years. The Grovers are the favorites to cop the game, it is understood, but then again the Titans are a fighting outfit and they may trip the Berry coached Crimson team.

W. and J. will not have anything so very soft to contend with this week. Western Maryland is the dish, at Baltimore, Maryland. The Western Maryland boys are right good this year. They lost to Georgetown and swamped St. John's. The Prexies will not have Stew Wilson their stellar fullback this week, but our old friend Robert Deacle, former Westminster fullback will be holding down the line plunging assignment for the Presidents.

The Carnegie Tech team will be idle this week after meeting two strong teams in W. and J. and Georgia Tech. The Tech team will rest until the 24th when they meet the powerful Purdue eleven from Indiana. Following the Purdue game comes Notre Dame, Pitt and then Temple. We would say that Tech didn't pick any "Pop-Overs" this year.

There is not a Tri-State Conference battle this week. Friday night Bethany goes to New Concord, O., for a game with Muskingum. Saturday Geneva will play Boston University at Boston. Allegheny and Thiel will tangle Saturday at Greenville, Westminster meeting Grove City at New Wilmington.

South Hills Plan For Team

South Hills Kangaroos plan to organize a grid team for the present season. The following will compose this eleven: Alex Sneizek, Pat Augustine, Billy Frengel, Stanley Kosella, Tony Champ, James Million, Joe Zebgan, Dick Domenic, Tony Esposito, Joe Sniezek, Jimmie Beans, and Billy Zenkner and any other player wishing a tryout.

This team would like to book games with all fast elevens in the city. For games call 5665R12 and ask for Pat. Games can also be scheduled by writing to Pat Augustine, R. F. D. No. 7, Martha St.

Union Prepares For Tough Game With Mars High

Union High Team Given Tough Scrimmage—Mateja Reports For Football

Union high school football team had a healthy scrimmage session Tuesday afternoon. The seniors were divided into one team and the juniors and sophs on the other and they battled over the field for a scoreless tie for three quarters. It was one of the best scrimmage sessions of the year for Union and should put them in fine shape for Mars high this week.

Jaworski, on the senior team, broke away for the only touchdown of the scrimmage late in the fourth quarter. The underclassmen showed a lot of fight for inexperienced players. There is a lot of fine looking material on the second and third teams.

Casimer Mateja reported for practice for the first time yesterday and Coach Boyd may shift him to an end position. Mateja played on the Union high team for two years and won his letter. Mateja is a very fine pass receiver and will be tried out at end.

Reports from Mars indicate that Coach Crebbs has a fast, light team. They recently held Butler to a low score. The Mars game will likely be one of the toughest of the year for the Boyd coached team. Union may win if they are not too confident.

Shenango Team Will Scrimmage

East New Castle Team Coming Along Fine For Mercer Tilt Friday

Providing the weather is suitable, the Shenango high school football team will scrimmage this afternoon on the Shenango field in preparation for Friday afternoon when the East New Castle eleven battles Mercer high at Shenango. The game starts at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Pop Johnston was not pleased with the showing his boys made against Slippery Rock last week. East New Castle earned a tie in the final quarter when it made a steady march down the field. Another good game is expected Friday when the Shenangos battle for the second time on home soil.

Franklin Tops Shenango High

Franklin Gridders Hand Shenango Second Team 7-0 Trimming In Practice Game

In a practice game played Tuesday afternoon on the Shenango high school field the Ben Franklin junior high eleven romped off the field with a 7-0 victory over the Shenango high second team.

The Franklinites scored their only tally in the first quarter. The winners displayed good offensive and defensive ability. The game was played merely to give the gridders a workout for the afternoon.

Wilson May Get In Game On Saturday

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 14—Washington and Jefferson's grid hopes were buoyed up today with the announcement of head coach Amos that he believed "Stew" Wilson, star fullback, hurt last Saturday, would be available for Saturday's game with Western Maryland at Baltimore.

Woodward High Is Tough Foe

New Castle Prepares For Final Night Game Of Season On Friday

NEW CASTLE HOPES TO TUMBLE OHIOANS

Game Expected To Be Replete With Action; Woodward Ranked High

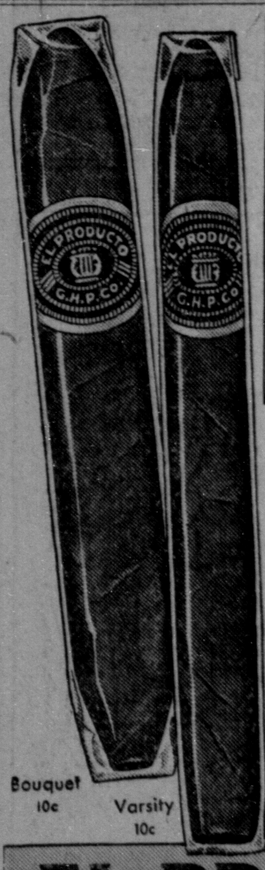

With two more days left before they go into action again, the New Castle high football eleven is training diligently at Taggart field daily in preparation for Woodward high of Toledo, Ohio, the fifth opponent to encounter the local Red and Black eleven this season. The final night game of the season will be played Friday night at Taggart field.

The final five games on the card will be played on Saturday afternoons. According to dope Woodward has one of the smoothest combinations in Ohio. It will be remembered that it was this team that gave the 1930 New Castle team one of the toughest games of the season. Although the local team won it was anybody's contest until the final whistle. The score was 12-6.

This season the Ohioans will come here with the idea of tripping the locals. New Castle commenced training for this gruelling affair Monday afternoon. Tuesday afternoon Coach Phil Bridenbaugh ordered his boys through a strenuous workout. Another hard workout is in store for today.

It will be of interest to many to know that Woodward was the team that gave Waite high, one of the best elevens in the country, one of the hardest tussles of the season in 1930. This season the Woodwardians are again ranked high.

Due to the fact that Toledo is a long distance away from here the visitors will not bring a big delegation of followers along with them. Last season several thousand watched these two teams battle it out. Faculty manager Ralph H. Gardner is preparing to take care of another large crowd.

Gardner Likes Young's Plan

Local Head Thinks Much Money Can Be Raised Through Charity Game

"I think the plan is a fine one and I will be more than glad to go along with the matter in anyway I can", Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner stated this morning concerning the plea made by Owen D. Young, chairman of the President Hoover's Relief committee that every college and school football team play a benefit game to aid unemployment.

Mr. Gardner believes the idea is a good one and that much money could be raised to aid those who are unemployed. Whether the local institution will play a benefit game is not known yet.

Last season a charity contest was played between the New Castle team and the alumni.

Crime Cost Heavy In San Francisco

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 14—Crime costs San Francisco $4,000,000 annually it is revealed by Prof. S. C. May of the University of California in a survey of the state costs of administration criminal justice. This amount is the highest expended by any community in the state for protection against crime, the survey revealed, being 6.39 per cent of the total tax levy. Los Angeles was second in expenditures for crime control and prevention, spending a total of 6.29 per cent of the tax levy. Of the $4,000,000, 81.4 per cent is spent for the police department, 12 per cent for penal and corrective treatment of prisoners, 3.5 per cent for prosecution of criminals and 3.1 per cent for support of criminal courts.

INTRODUCING

Coach Al Wittmer

By JACK SORDS

copyright, 1931, Central Press Ass'n.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh of a series of cartoon-story portraits on new football coaches by Jack Sords, nationally famous sports artist.

Princeton looks promising this season, despite that reverse with Brown. If this is borne out in later games all credit must go to Al Wittmer, new coach.

Wittmer succeeded this year to the reins dropped by Bill Roper last season and has begun the task of teaching the Tigers a fresh, new-to-them football offensive.

Al has begun his important job under gloomy circumstances. Princeton expects him to extricate the Tiger from the bramble bushes of defeat which have snaggled the big striped football cat on too many occasions in the recent past.

Wittmer gets a great break this year by Yale's decision to alternate her "Big Three" games instead of always playing Princeton first and Harvard last each season. This year is Princeton's turn to be the Elis' final game opponent and thus the Tigers will gain a Saturday of rest between the Washington and Lee contest—which should be easy—and the Yale game.

Jesuits Ordered To Leave Spain

Cortes Orders Expulsion Of All Jesuits From Country

MADRID, Oct. 14—Expulsion of all Jesuits from Spain was ordered today by the Cortes.

The action was taken by the adoption of an article in the new constitution, the expulsion to take place when the constitution goes into effect. The vote was 171 to 59.

A compromise was reached with regard to the manner in which property owned by the Jesuits will be taken over by the government.

Anti-clerical demonstrations were reported in a number of cities. A Granada police fired into a crowd of rioters, and at Santander an attempt was made to burn a Carmelite church after the doors had been soaked with gasoline.

Several persons were reported injured when two bombs exploded in a cafe at Saragossa.

FIRE LEVELS BARN ON PORTER FARM

SHARON, Oct. 14.—A large barn on the Darlington Porter farm, between West Middlesex and New Wilmington, on the Sharon-New Castle road, was completely destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Monday evening. The building was an old landmark in the vicinity, having been erected more than 60 years ago.

Volunteer workers acted promptly to release the live stock from the barn, and poultry from the henhouse which adjoins the barn and which also was destroyed by the flames.

The owners have been unable to determine the cause of the fire, and stated that the loss is partly covered by insurance.

Geneva To Play At Boston, Mass.

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 14.— The first long trip for Howard Harpster and his Geneva gridders occurs this week when Boston University will be met at Nickerson Field, Boston, Mass. The game is the fifth of the campaign for the Golden Tornado and marks the halfway stage in the year's schedule. Geneva enters the game with the record of two wins, one tie, and one loss.

Geneva is favored to defeat the Hub City brigade judging from the records to date but Harpster is not expecting an easy contest. In view of the work against Thiel last Friday the Genevans may have to brace quite a good deal to return with possession of the long end of the score.

Hilary Mahaney is the head coach of Boston U. and has as his assistants Al Marsters, one time Dartmouth backfield ace, and George Kenneally. Johnny McArthur, right end, captains the outfit and is serving his final year on the varsity. The backfield features Phil Hootstein, who formerly starred at Lawrence Academy.

The chairman of a farmers' organization, which met to demand relief, was 30 minutes late because he couldn't find a parking space.

Basketball League Teams Are Registered Thursday

A registration meeting of all basketball teams that wish to enter the Y. M. C. A. Church League will be held Thursday evening in the association building at 7:30 p. m., Henry T. MacNichols, physical director, announced today.

Twenty-four teams were represented at the last meeting held two weeks ago, when the first organization was affected. Thursday night's meeting will be the final one at which church teams may register. No registrations will be accepted after that meeting.

After the registrations have been made the teams will be entered into the A and B leagues, which will be formed. With the program and class schedule that the physical department has this year it will be impossible to take care of more than 20 teams. With this fact in mind, two leagues of 10 teams each will be organized.

Another plan may be adopted, namely a league of 12 teams and a league of eight teams.

Commission Meets

The ministerial commission met last week for the purpose of reviewing the line-up of church basketball teams and found everything satisfactory.

The actual practice sessions of the church teams will start after November 1, in order to give the teams proper amount of training before the start of play, about the 15th of November.

The teams now being organized anticipate a successful league season.

The leagues in play last year went through one of the most successful seasons ever had on the "Y." floor. Temple Israel won the A league championship and expects to duplicate its feat again this year. The Finnish Lutherans won the B league championship, and from all indications will be out fighting hard in the lead to win again.

New faces will be seen in the league this year. The Epworth M. E., under the leadership of Charles Matthews, manager, and St. Andrew's, St. Paul's Lutheran, First Congregationals and the New Wilmington United Presbyterians will be the new teams this year.

St. Lucy's church and Sacred Heart are placing teams in the A and B leagues.

Members of the different congregations represented by teams in the league are holding high hopes and if all present indications are a barometer of sports enthusiasm, the leagues will be assured of spirited support.

Telling about his hopes for the coming basketball season, Mr. MacNichols, the physical director, said:

"I find there is now a genuine demand for franchises in the church teams, because of the system of play which was inaugurated last year, namely the A and B classification. This system has worked out very satisfactorily and is sure to produce results.

"We are desirous of having more young men play and more teams from different churches represented in our leagues this season. Our present plans indicate that we will have a far more successful season this year than last."

Announce Card For Grid Loop

Three Games Carded For Saturday Afternoon In Opening Of City-County Grid League

Everything is in readiness for the kickoff in the city-county football league on Saturday afternoon, October 17. The games—and there will be three of them—will start at 2:30 o'clock.

There are six teams in the league and a fast snappy circuit is assured. The teams for the most part are made up of former New Castle high luminaries.

The venture of a grid league is a brand new idea here and one that is being sponsored by Tully Caiazza. There is considerable interest and rivalry aroused due to teams from all sections of the city being represented.

The following officials will work the games on the opening day: Sampson street field, Factor and Marino; West Pittsburg, Thomas and Banko; Fall track, McIntosh and Howley.

Following is the schedule that has been drawn up and will end on November 14:

October 17.

Sacred Hearts vs. DeHart A. C., Sampson field.

Croton A. C. vs. West Pittsburg, West Pittsburg.

Williams A. C. vs New Castle All Starts, Fall track.

October 24.

Sacred Hearts vs. New Castle All Stars, George Washington.

Croton A. C. vs. DeHart A. C., Sampson field.

West Pittsburg vs. Williams A. C., Fall track.

October 31.

Sacred Hearts vs. Croton A. C., Sampson field.

Williams A. C. vs. DeHart A. C., Fall track.

West Pittsburg vs. N. C. All Stars, George Washington.

November 7.

Sacred Hearts vs. Williams A. C., Sampson street.

Croton A. C. vs. New Castle All Stars, George Washington.

DeHart A. C. vs. West Pittsburg, West Pittsburgh.

November 14.

Croton A. C. vs. Williams A. C., Fall track.

West Pittsburg vs. Sacred Hearts, George Washington.

New Castle All Stars vs. DeHart A. C., Sampson field.

Winner of championship will play Ellwood City for county championship.

Army Grid Coach Is All Business

Major Ralph Sasse, Makes Army Football Men Toe Mark In Class rooms

MILITARY TRAINING IMPORTANT THING

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 14.—"But you see our purpose here at the Point," Major Ralph Sasse said softly, "Is to turn out officers—not football players."

Inevitably the walls of the Major's office receded and the remembrance of a wind-swept field at South Bend, Ind., took their place. The soft accents of Sasse were replaced by the clipped speech of Knute Rockne and the pale blue eyes of the Notre Dame sage took the place of Sasse's steady brown ones.

Amateur Coach

It was three days before the Army game a year ago and Rockne was talking about Sasse and the West Point team.

"That Sasse," Rockne chuckled at the time, "Is a professional soldier and an amateur coach. The Army always comes first with him. Then football."

Major Sasse has never allowed crowded stadiums or over-publicized football contests to distort his sense of values. At West Point the football squad is allowed but an hour and fifty minutes of practice three times a week. Spring practice is unheard of. Very few coaches would even attempt to produce a winning team under those conditions but Sasse manages to turn out consistently good teams.

Is Great Game

"Football is a great game," Sasse said yesterday, "but this is a military academy. Football is not an end here—but a means toward an end. Football helps make officers of these men. Because we have so little time to practice we have to work hard when we do get on the field. You can see me work with military precision. These men are learning lessons on the gridiron which will help them to be better officers."

Life at West Point is hard—but exhilirating. A football player gets no "break" at all. Each Saturday reports as to his academic standing are turned in to Major Sasse. If a man is even slightly behind in his work he is ineligible to play that Saturday. This seldom happens now. Those boys at the Point love to play football under that big Sasse. He's a hard taskmaster but if theres a single member of that squad who wouldn't gladly leap into the waters of the Hudson at his behest this correspondent has never found him. He's "A right guy," the cadets tell you. And he knows his football.

Hospital Head Dies On Tuesday

Mrs. Eliza Swogger, Superintendent Of Ellwood Hospital, Passes Away

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 14—Mrs. Eliza Viola Dean Swogger, wife of Joseph W. Swogger of 411 Haig St., superintendent of the Ellwood City hospital, died Tuesday evening at 9:40 o'clock, in the hospital of which she was the superintendent, following an illness of a month due to a complication of diseases.

Death of Mrs. Swogger comes as a shock to the entire community, where she had endeared herself to all, not only during the time that she was superintendent of the hospital, but also the period of time that she served as a nurse at the local plant of the National Tube Company. She was of a kindly disposition and was known for the efficient manner in which she conducted the activities of the hospital in the capacity as superintendent.

Mrs. Swogger was born in Slippery Rock Township, Lawrence county, August 18, 1888, the daughter of George and Mary R. Hunt Dean and was 43 years of age. She had been a resident of Ellwood City for the past fifteen years, during which time she had been actively engaged in her profession as a nurse, except for the period she served in 1918-1919 in France as a member of the Army Nurse Corps with the American Expeditionary Forces. She was nurse at the local plant of the National Tube Company for eight years, prior to her duties as superintendent of the hospital here and in addition to her war service overseas.

She was graduated from the nurses training school of the Shenango Valley hospital in New Castle in June 1915 and had spent practically all the time since her graduation from that institution in the practice of her profession in this city.

Mrs. Swogger was a member of the Harlansburg Baptist church, the Eastern Star, American Legion and the Lawrence County Unit of the Women's Overseas Service League.

Besides her husband, she leaves six sisters, Mrs. Samuel Fox, Mrs. Ed Young and Mrs. Norman Perschke of Slippery Rock township, Mrs. Charles McClelland and Mrs. Jessie Boak of New Castle, and Mrs. Mary Burnsides of Harlansburg and five brothers, Verne Dean of Bradford County, Pa., James Dean of Lyonsdale, Pa., Theodore Dean of Union Bridge, Md., George Dean and Chadwick Dean of Slippery Rock Township.

Funeral services will be held Friday October 16, 1931 at 2 p. m. in the Baptist church, this city, with Rev. A. L. Warren in charge. Interment will be made in Harlansburg Cemetery.

Central School To Be City Property

Building Will Be Turned Over To City On December 1, It Is Announced

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 14—The present Central School building located on Lawrence avenue at Sixth street will become city property on December 1 it was revealed at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night.

It was agreed several years ago that the school would be turned over to the city this year, following the construction of the Lincoln School Building. It was planned that the Central School would become the new city building, but the present crowded conditions of the local school will not permit this.

The board plans to operate the school on a rental basis and will prepare to draw up a contract soon. The board desires to reach a general agreement with the borough council as to the amount of rent and of the maintenance of the building. It may be that the board will continue to hold insurance on the building.

At this time R. K. Mattocks, secretary of the board, announced that that 1931 tax receipts for the month of September amounted to $30,000. This will be swelled by the end of October.

The board plans to join a moving picture association which will furnish educational pictures for the school at a minimum cost. Superintendent Smith reported that the students derive a good amount of education from the various pictures shown.

Board Has Short Meeting Tuesday

Superintendent's Report Shows Large Increase In Attendance Than First Of Month

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 14.—Probably the shortest meeting of the year was held by the Board of Education of Ellwood City at its regular meeting in its rooms of the Lincoln High school last night. The business for the month of September was much less than usual.

The local schools have an attendance much larger than at any time before, it was revealed last night by Superintendent Smith's report. The total enrollment for the month of September was 3849. The percentage of attendance was 97. The first six weeks period in the local schools ended Tuesday.

The board favored the action of Mr. Smith in employing a secretary for the school doctor, W. G. Evans, at this time. This will enable the doctor and the school nurse to look after matters of more importance. Dr. Evans and Miss Betsy Shank, the Dental Hygienist in the local schools have been doing wonderful work here, reports show.

Much aid has been received from the schools by the Community Service League of this city. Recently the schools donated some wearing apparel that will be used this winter after minor repairs.

Mr. Steifel's subject was "Business and Social Conditions in Russia". Under communistic rule no business or individual can operate at a profit. The principles of their system is to make a living and provide the necessities of life to all and profits to none. Corruption, morally and politically does not exist in Russia, asserted the speaker. The prisoners in Russia are treated splendidly. They receive comfortable quarters, good food, and plenty of work. NEW YORK STOCKS

Small Volume Of Stock Is Offered For Sale

W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The leading industrial and railroad stocks pushed upward to slightly higher prices this morning, after an early dip of a point or more resulting from an over-night accumulation of selling orders.

An upturn in Steel production in Youngstown and other important centers, a rise in freight car loadings to the high level of the year to date, and the declaration of an extra $2 dividend by Woolworth Company were the principal factors on the bull side of the market in the early trading. Once again there was an unusually small volume of stocks offered for sale at current prices and scattering buying orders from outside sources.

Woolworth advanced 3¼ points to 54¼ on announcement of the special dividend, which had been partially promised. New York Central, leading the rails, sold up more than a point and Consolidated Gas had a similar record at the head of the Public Utility stocks. American Tel and Tel rallied to above 134, compared with its opening price of 133.

CHANGES IN CODE REGULATIONS GIVEN

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Apply for 1932 motor vehicle license plates now, Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today urged automobile owners. Mailing of approximately 2,000,000 renewal applications for 1932 registration was made Monday.

"There is nothing to be lost by applying for 1932 plates now," Commissioner Eynon said. "If prior to January 1, 1932, a transfer of 1932 plates is desired, no fee will be charged if application is received in correct form by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles prior to January 1. Any difference in the required registration will be adjusted by either additional payment by the applicant, or a refund to the applicant.

"If the vehicle has been 'junked,' write 'Junk' across the face of the title, sign it, and return to this department. If you sell it for junk, assign the title to the purchaser, fill in Form RV-T-6 and mail to the Department of Revenue, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Harrisburg.

"If the vehicle has been sold to a resident of another state, write 'Sold out-state' on the application, sign and return the application to the department."

Accuracy in filling out renewal registration cards will speed delivery tags to applicants and save the Commonwealth money, Commissioner Eynon said.

"Be sure you have signed your check and the application before sending it to the department," the Commissioner warns. "Approximately 4 per cent. of the applications for renewal of registration have to be returned each year for either signature on application or signature on check. In some cases the check has been made out for the incorrect amount.

No "Rubber" Checks

"Be sure you have sufficient money in bank to meet payment of the check. By sending in an uncollectable check the applicant is only fooling himself. He may obtain his license tags but use of them will be short-lived. They will be lifted by a State Highway Patrolman. The law also makes this a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment not to exceed two years, or both."

The attention of truck owners is directed to a change on the 1932 applications. Truck owners are required to give the number of axles and kind of tires on each truck they are registering. Space for this information is provided on the face side of the renewal application form. On the reverse side of the application are two paragraphs which every truck owner is cautioned to read before making out his application. They are headed: "Attention Truck Owners," and read in part as follows:

"The number of axles and the type of tires with which this truck is equipped must be indicated on the face of this form in the space provided. If you have added an axle to your truck, making the chassis of the three-axle type, and have not notified the department of such change, this application must be accompanied by Form RV-T-10, executed by you, as well as Form RV-T-18, executed by the person installing the additional axle together with the certificate of title covering this motor vehicle. If the application which you submitted to this department when the motor vehicle was originally titled, indicated that it was of the three-axle type, you need not supply the information requested on the other side of this application.

If tire equipment has been changed from one class to another (pneumatic, cushion rubber, or solid rubber) Form RV-T-10, properly executed, and certificate of title must accompany this application."

Moderate Improvement In Demand For Steel

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Moderate improvement in the demand for steel from the automobile, farm equipment and radio industries and the railroads, together with the better sentiment resulting from the efforts of the administration at Washington to mobilize the credit resources of the country, presents a somewhat brighter business picture, according to the weekly Iron Age summary to be released tomorrow.

Although increases in business are still spotty and not sufficiently large to lift steel ingot production above the 29 per cent rate of a week ago, the operations of finishing mills in some lines are higher than those of recent weeks, and further acceleration is promised for the latter half of October.

Farm equipment manufacturers are increasing their orders and inquiries for steel for new production schedules, which in some instances will be begun early in November. The railroads, although slow with their annual rail inquiries and quiescent in plans for new rolling stock, are placing more liberal orders for steel for car repairs. The radio industry, while not a large tonnage user, is expanding its steel requirements for seasonal manufacturing programs.

The Iron Age composite prices for pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $15.34 a gross ton for the former and 2.116 cents a pound for the latter.

Last night's meeting took place at the school building after classes and was an "interest group" meeting. The club divided into groups and spent an hour or so under the leadership of the following young women—Snappy tappers, Miss Agnes Webster; marionettes, Miss Lenore Beall; nightingales, Miss Hazel Campbell; party peppers, Miss Margaret Guy; cut and paste, Miss Hazel Bergland; and dramatics, Miss Marian Wilson of the Y. W. C. A.

Two new advisors were added to the club—Miss Hazel Bergland and Miss Lenore Beall.

The white caps will be worn by the Girl Reserves each day of this week, in class and out.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Trying to pound out a colyum the past few days has been almost painful. Not physically, but mentally for trying to get ideas to jell, sitting at home is productive of copy that isn't always what it should be.

Of course there's always the visitors who come in with some tales of the great outdoors. Jack Sines, superintendent of the Game Farm was in yesterday and I learned some things I didn't know before.

Thus far this year they have shipped 7800 pheasants from the Game Farm, with about 1000 yet to ship. All of these birds were hatched here and they have been shipped to nearly every county in the state for the sport of the hunters.

The natural enemies of the pheasant, the owls, are still giving considerable trouble out at the farm, with now and then some of them meeting their everlasting in the pole traps they have erected. A pole trap consists of a trap stuck on top of a high pole sitting in the pheasant yards.

Mister Owl decides to get him a lunch of pheasant and swoops down at the birds in the yard. Startled they dash for the brush heap for refuge and the owl has to get some place to think the matter over. The pole trap seems the handiest place and he comes to rest on the top of it. It's his last rest for the floor sinks beneath him and he is a captive.

Several days ago two Great Horned Owls were caught out there. These queer looking birds are scarce in this part of Pennsylvania but not as scarce as the Snowy Owl. There has been but one Snowy Owl captured at the farm and this was sent to the state collection at Hershey.

Hoot owls, screech owls, and barn owls are common. They prey on pheasants and the result is that every attendant at the farm is a hunter, ready to dash out at any moment with a shot gun and bump off the invaders.

Hawks are another foe of the pheasants and these fellows come wheeling down towards the pheasant pens like airplanes. Circling and banking they look the ground over before striking but once they have a bird picked out for their lunch they swoop down and with their long talons carry off the pheasant on the fly.

Health Cars Help Correct Defects

Pre-School Age Children Are Examined During Summer

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Doctor Mary Riggs Noble, chief of the preschool section, of the State Health Department today, reported that as one of the results of the rural health car activities during the past summer, 350 children were discovered to be suffering from various eye defects, including seven cases of blindness, eight with conditions definitely leading to blindness, many instances of cross-eye, and all the other cases requiring professional correction to remove the possibility of serious impairment in later life.

"The fact that these defects were noted at the time is in itself exceedingly significant, but the real story lies in the report just completed of the follow-up work, which has led to the correction of many of the conditions thus brought to light," said Doctor Noble.

STATELY DANCE RETURNING.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14.—Return to the slow, stately style of dancing commonly associated with Spain, will feature the coming ballrom season, according to Bert Layton, president of the Pittsburgh Society for the Improvement of Dancing. The stomp, shuffle, drag, blackbottom and kindred dance steps will give way to leisurely glides and dips, long, graceful sliding movements, Layton predicts. "The jazz age has passed," Layton declares. "Dances this winter will be formal, graceful, stately and picturesque."

Must File Detail Of Campaign Cost

Law Not Generally Observed, Secretary Of Commonwealth Finds

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—Every political committee in any division of the state that spends more than fifty dollars on behalf of any candidate running for a state-wide office must file an account of receipts and expenditures in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth.

Secretary Richard J. Beamish has called this law to the attention of the state chairmen of the major parties and they have promised their co-operation.

This law has not been generally observed, the omission in most cases being apparent lack of familiarity with its requirements. Such committees have usually filed in the offices of the clerks of the courts of quarter sessions in their respective counties.

The penalty for failure to comply with this law is a fine of not less than $50 or more than $1000 and imprisonment for not less than one month or more than two years or both.

It is a companion window to that installed by Mrs. Woods in October of last year in memory of her mother, Mrs. Mary Todd Marchand, whose death occurred earlier in 1930.

The rector, Rev. W. F. Shero, Ph. O., of Christ church, formally accepted the window in behalf of the congregation.

PRISON FOR YOUTH, CALIFORNIA IDEA

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 14.— As one solution to California's crime problem, a penitentiary housing only juvenile offenders is to be built. Thus younger felons will be segregated from hardened convicts, according to Daniel J. O'Brien, state director of penology. It will house offenders between the ages of 18 and 24. "This new institution will represent an expenditure of a million dollars or more. It will pay bountiful dividends to the state each year in rehabilitated young men guided away from the careers of crime." California's prison population in Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries showed a total of 7,409 recently. Of these more than 1600 prisoners were between the ages of 18 and 24.
